HOUSE APPROVES OPEN HOUSING BILL

House Makes No Changes; Vote Is Taken On Senate Bill In Tight Security Session

On the eve of a 10-day Easter recess and five days after the King assassination, the House overrode final efforts to delay action and passed the measure in the form approved earlier by the Senate.

The final vote was almost anticlimatic to an earlier move in which members approved a motion to consider the measure as is rather than detour it to a House-Senate conference committee. The vote to keep the bill intact was 229 to 195.

The House acted under even tighter security than has been imposed during the past week of violence that followed the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King. Troops still guarded the Capitol. Visitors to the House galleries were required to show passes and sign registers.

TIPS SCALES

The assassination of King appeared to tip the scales in favor of the bill, despite the insistence of many supporters that it was long overdue and the protests of some opponents against responding to "blackmail" of violence.

In a final round of debate, Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., said King, "a great representative of the downtrodden of all races," had fought for similar legislation. Madden told the House "the insult of housing discrimination contributes to social unrest and riots."

Opponents repeated their objections that the measure took away property rights and was unconstitutional.

BILL'S PROVISIONS

The bill would ban discrimination in housing in three stages, covering the sale or rental of 80 per cent of the nation's homes and apartments by 1970. A private homeowner would remain exempt in selling his own home without a broker's help or the use of discriminatory advertising.

SEASON OPENS FOR BASEBALL

It was opening day for baseball fans throughout the country today, after two days of postponements due to the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Winds Topple Ferry; 150 Feared Dead

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Marine Minister John Scott said he had abandoned hope for the 100 or more persons missing from the car ferry Wahine which floundered on a reef outside Wellington Harbor today during a typhoon. It was feared the death toll would reach 150.

Most of the 744 persons aboard were saved by a Dunkirk-like flotilla of small boats which put out into the tumultuous seas to rescue the Flames, sparks and smoke visible for miles, rise in the night as an employee of the Bergman Manufacturing Co. at 632 Irwin Street, San Rafael, watches the fire which broke out last night in four drums of magnsium behind the building. LBJ Message Awaited On War, Peace Moves

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI)—New presidential moves were reported near today concerning both conduct of the war and the pursuit of peace in Vietnam.

President Johnson, returning to the White House after two nights and a day of conferences at Camp David, was expected to announce soon a new military commander for Vietnam and possible arrangements for the start of talks with North Vietnam.

The talks involving several of Johnson's top military and diplomatic advisers were said to have covered a variety of options for dealing with Hanoi's representatives in the initial ambassadorial-level talks.

Meanwhile it was reported by the Hungarian news agency in Hanoi that North Vietnam is still holding out for Cambodia as site of the first talks.

In a statement issued today Secretary of State Dean Rusk did not mention the new Hanoi dispatch when reporting the U.S. is seeking to set up a meeting as soon as possible. He added there had been no decision "as of this morning."

Among the U. S. moves discussed at Camp David was a cessation of all bombing of North Vietnam to demonstrate U. S. sincerity and to test North Vietnam's readiness to proceed to actual peace talks.

The discussions also ranged over suggestions that the United States could take a hard line because of what was described by Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who flew in from Saigon as a strong allied military position.

100,000 Troops Open New Drive In Vietnam Provinces

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. military spokesmen said today a force of 100,000 Allied troops had been unleashed in the war's largest operation to "eliminate" the 18,000 to 20,000 Communist troops still infesting the 11 provinces nearest Saigon.

It marked the first time of the war that American, South Vietnamese, Australian, New Zealand and Thailand troops had joined in a single massive drive through the 10,000 square miles around the capital city.

He said more than 90 battalions jumped off Monday in the operation, called "Complete Victory," and that at least 75,000 combat troops and 25,000 reserve and backup forces were involved.

The new drive follows close behind Operation Resolved to Win, a 50-battalion push that killed 2,685 Communists in a month long drive through the five provinces immediately surrounding Saigon.

Aftershock Jolts San Diego County

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Another earthquake jolted this city early today and seismologists said it was an aftershock of the strong temblor that rocked Southern California Monday night.

In Pasadena, Dr. Charles Richter, seismologist at the California Institute of Technology, said today's quake had a magnitude of 4.3 on the Richter Scale, well below the 6.5 intensity of the main shock Monday night.

$5.9 Million Bonds Ballot In San Rafael

The San Rafael Board of Education last night agreed to put a $5,925,080 high school bond issue to the voters in February, but set no firm date and took no action on a bond election for elementary school needs.

The proposed high school bond issue would include $3.9 million for a third high school and funds for a second gymnasium, development of the football field at San Rafael High School and other items.

The board of education will seek architects to make preliminary plans for the new school plants and will look for a site for the new high school. San Rafael voters rejected three school bond issues, totaling $10.6 million, last October.

George Gazulis, chairman of a citizens committee on school housing, said that if the new school plants are not built, it will probably be necessary to add additional class periods to the school day. The committee is opposed to double sessions, however.

In another action aimed at progress on school building needs in the city, the board agreed to consider a 10-cent (on $100 assessed valuation) "unsafe

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPPLES MARKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Trading at record-toppling volume, the New York Stock Exchange soared to another record, topping the April 3 peak of 19.29 million shares, 16 minutes before closing time. (See story on page 22.)

Dampened by Secretary of State Dean Rusk's statement he sees scant signs of enemy restraint in response to President Johnson's peace moves, the Dow Jones industrial average retreated slightly.

Peace Plebiscite Wins; 13 New Council Faces

Voters Pass Water Bonds, Cut Salaries

Voters in 10 Marin cities yesterday elected 13 new faces and re-elected 11 incumbents and two former councilmen in elections for 26 city council seats.

A field of 53 candidates ran in the election. (See individual city stories, page 21.)

The successful Mill Valley ballot measure on the Vietnam War, which passed 1,863 to 1,433, got all the publicity, but propositions also were on the ballot in Sausalito, San Anselmo and Fairfax.

In Sausalito, a $75,000 bond measure to replace water mains won almost 90 per cent approval, with 1,500 votes for it and only 175 against. A two-thirds margin was necessary to pass the measure, which is to be supplemented by $25,000 in Marin Municipal Water District funds and, hopefully, $100,000 in federal funds.

SALARY CUTS

In San Anselmo, voters overwhelmingly balloted to cut the salary for city councilmen from $150 a month to $25 for each council meeting, with a maximum of $75 a month. The vote was 2,052 "aye" and 579 "no."

Councilmen voted 3-2 to pay themselves the $150-a-month salary on Feb. 14, 1967, as the only salary they were permitted to adopt by state law without a vote by the electorate.

In Fairfax, both measures to make the positions of city clerk and city treasurer appointive instead of elective were defeated, with only 364 votes for the former and 1,195 against it, and only 354 for the latter and 1,119 against it.

PAGNI LOSES

Fairfax Mayor George A. Pagni, retiring from the City Council, ran for city treasurer so that if he were elected and the post were not made appointive, he could return the $65-a-month salary to the city. He lost, however, to the incumbent, Mrs. Dorothy A. McGlothlin, 392 to 1,142.

Only three incumbents lost: San Anselmo Mayor Arthur W. Smith, Thomas W. Jones in Ross and Henry Brocco in Larkspur. Smith, the dean of Marin councilmen with 25 years in office, ran fourth in a field of six can-

Mill Valley, Beverly Hills Vote Antiwar

By ALAN JONES

Mill Valley voters yesterday gave a resounding "yes" to a resolution asking the President to seek a political solution in Vietnam and start "orderly withdrawal from the present untenable position of the United States" in that country.

The resolution carried by more than 56 per cent, 1,863 to 1,433. The vote was virtually tied in early returns, but carried by margins approaching two to one in two big precincts.

The outcome was predictable by 9:45 p.m., but the final count was another hour in coming as one precinct was unaccountably late in reporting. When the final return came in, from consolidated Precinct 3026 at Masonic Hall, it showed 410 yes, 219 no on the Vietnam resolution.

DAVIS VOTES

Mill Valley and Beverly Hills, which also passed an antiwar measure yesterday, became the first cities in the nation to pass such resolutions. Antiwar measures have been defeated in San Francisco, Madison, Wis., and three other cities.

Davis (Yolo County) voters yesterday rejected 2,744 to 1,966 a similar proposition that the city council ask President Johnson to press peace negotiations.

The council chamber was crowded by 8:40 p.m. when election results began going up on a green slate. About half the crowd was children of assorted ages. While most adults seemed to be watching the candidate races, the children were watching Vietnam. (See picture, page 21.)

As the early returns came in, one backer of the resolution said, "Those are the conservative precincts. We've won it — the others will bring us in."

ABSENTEE VOTES

When the absentee votes were posted showing 127 yes, 74 no, a man who campaigned against the resolution pointed out absentee votes were cast before the president's bomb halt last week, and probably didn't mean much.

With half the vote in, the measure held a thin five-vote margin, but the tension didn't last much longer.

A few minutes later results from Mount Carmel School and Old Mill School put the resolution over beyond doubt. There was a brief cheer as the

LET 'GEORGE' DO IT

Marin's Computer Began Small, But Grew Apace

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

(First of three articles)

This is the story of the Family of George, or one little computer and how it multiplies.

"George" was an IBM 1401 leased by Marin County for its data processing bureau in 1962 and christened by Supervisor Peter H. Behr "so we can say, 'Let George do it.'"

"George" had been preceded by a smaller, simpler computer — a mere "Model T" of the computer world — installed when the county decided to take the plunge into data processing in 1957. He was in turn succeeded in 1965 by a bigger, faster and more intricate model, an IBM 360, which unlike "George" has never acquired a nickname.

Joseph B. Leach, who had headed the county data proeessing since last August, says the 360 is unsuitable, and is looking around for a still bigger, faster, more intricate replacement.

But to go back to the beginning . . .

On Oct. 25, 1956, the board of supervisors, on motion of Supervisor William D. Fusselman of the Second District, unanimously passed the motion that put Marin County into the computer age. It authorized a study of data processing for county use, by a committee composed of the auditor-controller, assessor, treasurer-tax collector, clerk, and superintendent of schools.

The action was taken on urging of County Auditor-Controller Leon A. de Lisle, who envisioned wide use of computers in handling county business.

The following January, the committee recommended that International Business Machines Corp. equipment be adopted. The first computer was leased from IBM without competitive bidding — a process that has been repeated with its two successors.

De Lisle at that time told the

Nightriders Kill Negro Boy; More Cities Hit By Violence

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Negro violence sparked by the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spread to Kansas City, Newark and Trenton, N. J., on the day of his funeral. White nightriders shot and killed a Negro youth in Jacksonville, Fla.

Since King was shot by a sniper Thursday in Memphis, 122 cities have experienced disorder.

38 DEATHS

Thirty eight persons have been reported killed, 2,248 injured and 18,831 arrested. Authorities have called in 19,200 U.S. Army troops and called up 37,000 National Guardsmen.

Police fatally shot looters in Kansas City and Trenton last night and Newark had more than 100 fires and some looting.

In Wilmington, Del., Negro youths looted and set fires for the second day yesterday. The entire 3,800-man Delaware National Guard was called out to quell the disorder.

Roving gangs of Kansas City youths hurled Molotov cocktails, looted stores and sniped at police. There were 66 fires in the Negro section and the Negro bands looted in the plush Country Club Plaza section.

Police fired at the looters in Kansas City and one, Maynard Gaugh, a Negro, was killed coming out of a liquor store, police said. In all, 15 persons suffered gunshot wounds. No policeman was shot. Police arrested 240 persons.

Gov. Warren E. Hearns called up 2,200 National Guardsmen, 1,700 of them two hours after students of Kansas City's Central High School, a predominantly Negro school, marched to City Hall to protest the fact that school was in session on King's burial day. The 2,000 young demonstrators were met by hundreds of policemen in gas masks standing shoulder to shoulder to keep them from City Hall. The disorders followed.

In Trenton, the capital of New Jersey, bands of young Negroes fought police with their fists, set fires and looted in the downtown section near the spot where George Washington led his troops against Hessian mercenaries after crossing the Delaware River Christmas night 1776. At one point the youths took a police cruiser away from the police. The police won it back.

Trenton police said they shot Harlan M. Joseph, 19, while he was looting near City Hall. An angry crowd gathered.

"They killed him for stealing a shirt, they killed him for stealing a shirt," they growled. S. Howard Woodson, a Negro and the minority leader of the New Jersey Assembly, tried to calm the crowd and got roughed up in a police scuffle.

Trenton police stood by and watched the looting for a while. But when they waded in with clubs to break it up, the looters fought them with their fists. Authorities said 10 fires were set.

At one point 15 to 20 Negro youths went into a Trenton precinct house to demand the release of an arrested friend. Two policemen on duty drove them out with a nightstick and a rifle.

In Newark, hundreds were made homeless by fires in the Central Ward ravaged by riots last summer that killed 26 persons. Arsonists struck in daylight and after dark. Dozens of stores were looted, including liquor stores, taverns, clothing stores, appliance stores.

"Let them have what they want" the Newark police dispatcher shouted to a beat policeman reporting the looting of a liquor store.

PROMISES PROBE

The Jacksonville authorities promised a full investigation of the nightrider slaying of Rudolph Hargett, 18. Witnesses said the carload of whites went through the Negro neighborhood twice.

They said the first time the whites threw rocks at a group of Negroes. The second time, they said, a shot rang out and Hargett was struck in the head by the bullet.

Before the slaying, Jacksonville police had clamped an overnight curfew on a 13-block Negro neighborhood where there had been rock-throwing and firebombing earlier.

Minor disorders were reported Tuesday in Homestead, Gainesville, and Pensacola, Fla.

In Wilmington, 41 persons were injured in two days of violence. Tuesday, the 29 injured included five whites who required hospitalization. Two were in poor condition, one with a stab wound and the other with a skull crushed by a brick. A police car was destroyed by a firebomb but the two officers patrolling in it escaped injury.

Snipers fired from the roofs in Wilmington's Negro areas and two residential blocks were badly damaged by flames. Juvenile gangs threw bricks through store windows and looted.

OTHER CITIES HIT

Scattered vandalism also was reported for the first time yesterday in Farrell and Sharon, Pa.; New Cassel, a Long Island suburb of New York City; Baton Rouge, La., and Grand Rapids and Niles, Mich.

Troops and police kept the lid on the weekend hot spots, including Washington, Chicago, Baltimore and Pittsburgh. Washington had a total of 10 dead and 6,423 arrested; Chicago 11 dead and 2,000 arrested, Baltimore 6 dead and 5,033 arrested. Pittsburgh reported 1,200 arrested.

San Francisco Bus Driver's Wounds Fatal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police dispatched squads of tactical units and set up a command post after a city bus driver was shot and killed and a sailor was wounded by a sniper in the Hunters Point area last night.

The bus driver was Martin J. Whitted, 29, father of three. Witnesses told police four youths grabbed Whitted's money changer, shot him and then fled.

The sailor, Charles Moakler, 21, was hit in the leg as he rode a motorcycle near the Hunter Point naval shipyard.

There had been isolated reports of other sniping, Osterloh said, but none was confirmed.

Teen Fatally Shot During Coin Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Fifteen cents and a bag of potato chips is not much of a cause to die for.

It's the price 18-year-old Bernard McCoy paid yesterday. His superiors at the Youth for Service described him as a trainee with "great promise." But he tried to settle a quarrel for his brother.

Police said McCoy's brother, Franklin Jr., 20, entered Vaughn's Liquor Store to buy a 10-cent bag of potato chips. He handed owner Preston Vaughn, 56, a quarter but said he got no change.

Franklin told detectives he was ordered at gunpoint from the store by a friend of Vaughn's, Oklen Q. King, 40. He met his younger brother, told him what had happened, and Bernard headed for the store.

In the confrontation, King said his shotgun went off accidentally when he snapped it shut. An hour later, young McCoy died in Mission Emergency Hospital of chest wounds, and King was booked on suspicion of murder.

Toll Put At 43

men, women and children who leaped into the sea or were hurled into the icy water when the 9,100-ton ship heeled over near the treacherous Pinnacle Rocks.

By 2 a.m. Thursday Wellington time (6 a.m. PST today) police said they had recovered 45 bodies and that 101 survivors were in hospitals. The typhoon which wrecked devastation in Wellington itself and killed at least one person in the city isolated the eastern harbor shore where bodies were being washed up on the sand.

But for relatives fearing for those not yet confirmed as safe Scott gave no hope.

"I am satisfied that no one alive was still floating in the water when darkness fell," he said. "And that was seven hours ago."

Iain MacDonald, a reporter fo the New Zealand Herald and a passenger, said there was no feeling of impending disaster aboard the 490-foot long Wahine. The stewards called for passengers to muster on the afterdeck for lifeboats but "there was far more boredom and discomfort than terror among the passengers."

"We were 'quite safe,' the loudspeakers assured us.

"Then suddenly what seemed the start of just another roll to port never reverted to even keel.

King's Killer Hunt Extends Into Mexico

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The search for the killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., extended to Mexico today. Police sought a man who obtained a Mexican visitor's permit here the day before the civil rights leader was slain.

A hitchhiker, fitting the description of the assassin, was picked up in Joplin Mo., last night but police said the suspect had all but cleared himself.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, in a front page copyrighted story today, said conspirators may have faked a series of police radio calls to confuse authorities after King was shot.

The story, written by George Bryan, said police radio reports of a car chase involving a white Mustang automobile apparently were faked.

"Could someone have used a transmitter tuned to the police frequency to put out misleading information—information which would take the focus of the search north from the city and open up escape routes . . . into Arkansas or south into Mississippi?" the story asked.

The newspaper said seven transmissions were heard over the Memphis police radio system about the chase shortly after King was slain. The messages told of a speeding Mustang pursued by a blue Pontiac. The reports said shots were fired at the Pontiac from the Mustang.

A conspiracy in the murder of King was denied last week by Attorney General Ramsey Clark. A Justice Department spokesman in Washington last night declined to awaken Clark for comment on the newwpaper's story.

In Mexico City local police were working today with agents of the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation to locate a man, fitting the assassin's description, who obtained a visitor's permit the day before King was killed.

Boat Damaged By Motor Fire

The 26-foot sailboat Aquaqu was damaged Monday when its engine caught fire in Racoon Straights off of Angel Island at 4:30 p.m., the Coast Guard reported today. Extent of the damage was undetermined.

Two passengers, including the boat's owner, Louis H. Vial of San Francisco, were rescued by a private vessel and then returned to shore on the Coast Guard's 40-foot fireboat which also towed the sailboat into the Corps of Engineers dock in Sausalito.

The Coast Guard said the fire was reported by the KGO helicopter.

A state statute allows school boards to levy taxes to replace buildings which have been declared unsafe or unable to withstand earthquakes. Superintendent John F. Plank estimated the 10-cent tax rate raise $150,000 the first year in the high school district and $120,000 to replace elementary school buildings which have been declared unsafe.

From the tax, the school districts would be seeking $225,000 for a high school gym, $171,000 for a four-classroom elementary school and $35,000 to replace the roof and wall at Laurel Dell School.

The board also approved busing of 83 students living east of highway 101 in the Terra Lind High School district to San Rafael High School next September. It approved a policy encouraging student living in the Terra Linda district to attend school at San Rafael high, less crowded than Terra Linda.

The board received, but took no action on a new salary plan for administrative and special services employees in the San Rafael School System.

The pay schedule places emphasis on training as well as experience, encourages professional growth and requires that all administrators have a minimum of five years teaching experience and an appropriate administrative credential.

The schedule adds another step to the present five-step pay schedule for San Rafael teachers, making administrative jobs the sixth step.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

TRAINING — Endorsed in-service educational activities by teachers to increase their professional capacities, but required in-service activities using district time or money to have administrative approval.

ADMINISTRATIVE — Approved the job description for a director of administrative services who will assist in the supervision of staff personel. Salary range for the job is $16,000 to $18,000.

REPAIRS — Approved spending $16,555 for repair of the swimming pool at San Rafael High School and $5,700 to begin a program to save black-topped paved areas at several schools.

CENSUS — Allocated $3,246 for participation in a census project with the City of San Rafael. Superintendent Plank said the census data will provide the school district with valuable information on the makeup of families in the city.

VOTE

Also in San Anselmo, Kenneth L. Anderson and James F. Reed, who ran as a slate, were elected in the wake of a campaign which saw Smith close off debate at a council meeting he called to rebut charges of inefficiency in the city's government.

It was the first election for Jones, who was appointed to the Ross council only last June. Brocco was seeking his second term.

Mill Valley voters proved to be inconsistent. They approved the anti-Vietnam War measure, but rejected the two candidates who supported it, Edward L. Farrell and Robert E. Burton. Instead voters there elected Robert H. Andresen, who hotly opposed the measure, incumbent George E. Wickham and Jerome C. Hauke, both of whom hedged on the issue.

Sausalito's famous restaurateur, Mrs. Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), failed in her fourth try for the council, but vowed she will try again in two years. She finished fourth again behind incumbent Alexander R. Imlay, Mrs. Robin Sweeny and Planning Commissioner Goerge C. Hoffman — who was the target of a full-page advertisement placed in the Independent-Journal on Saturday by Mrs. Owen.

It was a split decision for the women in the elections, with defeat going to Mrs. Patrick M. Beyer in Novato, Mrs. Gladys T. Bleyle in Mill Valley and Mrs. Owen. Victory went to incumbent Natalie G. Lewis in Ross, Mrs. Robin Sweeny and Anne L. Ellinwood in Tiburon, a former city councilman there.

Also returned to office was Cornelis Van Vliet in Fairfax.

Comeback tries by Fred C. Hannahs in Tiburon and Cecil J. Allen in San Anselmo failed.

Among the new members on the 10 city councils is one whose voice, at least, is well known to radio listeners, John F. (Jack) Carney, a disc jockey with a San Francisco station. He has lived in Ross only two years, a fact that generally is not regarded as an asset in a town where tradition is highly regarded.

The highest turnout of voters was 68 per cent in Ross, which had not had a city election since 1960. The poorest showing was 11 per cent in Belvedere, where three incumbents were uncontested for re-election.

The next lowest was Corte Madera, with 27 per cent of the registered voters turning out to the polls.

With 39,108 persons registered for the 10 elections, a total of 17,374, or 44 per cent, voted.

BALLOT

Then came the hour-long wait for the final precinct. About half the crowd drifted away, either sure of results, tired of waiting, or headed for candidates' homes for open house.

Sticking to the end was Councilman Rodric L. Robinson, author of the Vietnam resolution, who hovered between the council chamber and the telephone setup in the city manager's office where precinct reports were coming in to candidates' children serving as election aides.

Several candidates came and went during the evening but most left before results came in. Mrs. Gladys T. Bleyle stayed latest, but left before the last precinct reported.

The final precinct report at 10:45 p.m. capped the evening for the Vietnam resolution backers. The total from Masonic Hall nearly doubled the resolution's margin of victory.

In one of those vagaries of local-level politics, two of the three Mill Valley councilmen elected last night opposed the resolution and the third, incumbent George Wickham, was possibly the least enthusiastic among councilmen voting for it last month.

Wickham, Robert H. Andresen and Jerome C. Hauke won the three seats. Andresen campaigned against the council acting on national affairs, and while Hauke stuck mostly to local issues he said he "backed the President" on Vietnam.

Hauke ran third, nosing out Edward Farrell and Robert E. Burton, who strongly supported the Vietnam resolution.

The resolution, which will be forwarded to the President and to Congress, says:

"Whereas we, the citizens of Mill Valley, are deeply concerned with our nation's military involvement in Vietnam, let it be resolved that: we urge the President of the United States to immediately formulate a policy of peace in Vietnam and an orderly withdrawal from the present untenable position of the United States.

"Let it be further resolved that: we do not believe there can ever be a military solution in Vietnam, but that there must be a political solution, implemented by the President and the elected representatives of the United States."

The vote by precincts: Old Mill School, 411 yes, 254 no; Masonic Hall, 410 yes, 219 no; Mount Carmel School, 360 yes, 283 no; Park School, 174 yes, 189 no; American Legion Hall, 192 yes, 222 no; Watson Garage, 189 yes, 192 no; absentee votes, 127 yes, 74 no.

Burglar Gets $20

A burglar yesterday broke a bathroom window to enter the home of Hans J. Mathon, 71 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley, and stole $20 from a desk, police reported today.

damaged or destroyed including 35,000 houses 50 to 100 per cent destroyed. Another 30,343 houses suffered up to 50 per cent damage.

A report from Khe Sanh—relieved by a massive 20,000 man attack force last week—said the base went through an entire day yesterday without taking any Communist mortars, rockets or artillery fire. Two weeks ago Khe Sanh was receiving hundreds of incoming shells a day.

Operation Complete Victory covers an area ranging from the rubber plantations of Loc Ninh, near the Cambodian border 70 miles north of Saigon, to the rice paddies in Long An province, just southwest of Saigon, to the beautiful beaches of Vung Tau, 50 miles east of Saigon.

In North Vietnam, U.S. planes continued their heavy bombardment of supply lines in the southern panhandle. U.S. spokesmen said jets on missions yesterday kept well below the 19th Parallel as they have for five days—although President Johnson had set the 20th Parallel, 75 miles farther north, as the top limit for striking North Vietnam in his limited air war pause bid for peace talks.

COURTNEY LEE SNODGRASS

A 3-month-old girl died in her crib at a Sausalito child care center yesterday despite resuscitation efforts by Sausalito firemen and the husband of the center operator.

Courtney Lee Snodgrass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Snodgrass of 563 Bridgeway, was pronounced dead at 10:30 a.m.

She was at the day nursery run by Mrs. Russell Lessig at her home, 425 Locust Street. At 10:15 a.m., according to the coroner's report, Lessig found the child was having breathing difficulty. He called the fire department and tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation while waiting for the ambulance to arrive, but the baby could not be revived.

The girl reportedly had been treated by a doctor Monday for croup. The coroner's office attributed death to natural causes.

Pay To Firemen To Be Reviewed

Marinwood firemen are the lowest paid in the county, Fire Chief James W. Cameron reported last night at a meeting of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

Chairman Robert J. Cawley said the fire commission lacks jurisdiction over salaries and benefits. He referred the matter to the salary and personnel committee of the Marinwood Community Services District.

Cameron said that a study by the Marin County Fire Chiefs' Association shows that the Marinwood department has the lowest salaries and the least benefits of all departments in Marin.

King's College Mentor Sounds Final Tribute At Graveside

Like anybody, I would like to live a long life.

Longevity has its place. But I'm not concerned.

About that now.

By H. D. QUIGG

ATLANTA (UPI)—A new grave lies today among 60,000 black bodies buried in South View Cemetery. It holds a body only 39 years old. He couldn't wait.

The monument of white marble stands on a hillock overlooking the highway, with the flowers on the slope wilting fast atop the red soil that the man held dear. The identity of the man who couldn't wait is established at once in lines cut into stone.

Underneath the name and number of this scion of slaves are centered two lines from what is said to be an old slave song.

Free at Last, free at last, Thank God Almighty, I'm free at last.

A song of slavery does not go with the nature of the man whose name precedes the lines of chant. What the man needed was a hymn to impatience—an urgency born of courage. And he got it late yesterday in the person of an old man speaking in open air under a threatening blue overcast with thunder talking low above.

It was on the mall of Morehouse College, King's old school. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays recalled that the slain civil rights leader had said he would pay tribute to Mays if his old teacher died first. But, if it were switched, King had wanted Mays to do the job.

"Fate has decreed that I eulogize him," the president emeritus of Morehoouse told the scores of thousands that stood thronging the long green mall at the second King memorial service of the day.

"I wish it might have been otherwise, for, after all, I am three score years and ten and Martin Luther is dead at thirty-nine."

Then he struck a key: "Perhaps he was more courageous than soldiers who fight and die on the battlefield. There is an element of compulsion in their dying...he was acting on an inner compulsion that drove him. More courageous than those who advocate violence as a way out, for they carry weapons of destruction for defense.

"But Martin Luther faced the dogs, the police, jail, heavy criticism, and finally death; and he never carried a gun, not even a pocket knife...

"He would probably say that, if death had to come, I am sure there was no greater cause to die for than fighting to get a just wage for garbage collectors."

Then he got to the business of not waiting.

"He was not ahead of his time...every man is within his star, each in his time...Jesus had to respond to the call of God in the First Century A. D. and not in the 20th Century. He couldn't wait, even though he died young. How long do you think Jesus would have had to wait for the constituted authorities to accept him? Twenty-five years? A hundred years? A thousand? He died at 33. He couldn't wait...

"Abraham, leaving his country at God's call; Moses leading a rebellious people...Lincoln dying of an assassin's bullet; Woodrow Wilson crusading for a league of nations; Martin Luther King Jr. dying fighting for justice for garbage collectors—none of these men were ahead of their time. The time was always ripe to do that which was right."

When Mays said the assassin of King felt he had public support—that he knew there were some people that wished King dead, individuals in the audience became vocal.

"Speak!" several said.

"It should not have been necessary for Martin Luther King Jr. to stage marches...go to jail 30 times...we, too, are guilty of murder. It is time for the American people to repent and make democracy equally applicable to all Americans."

"Talk!...talk!"

"If we love him and respect him, let us see to it that he did not die in vain; let us see to it that we do not dishonor his name by trying to solve our problems through rioting in the streets. Violence was foreign to his nature...but let us see to it also that the conditions that cause riots are promptly removed..."

There was prolonged hand-clapping.

Drug Arrests Of Juveniles Up 800 Pct.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Juvenile drug arrests last year in California jumped 800 per cent over those of 1960, a report of Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said today.

The 1967 arrests numbered 14,760—an increase of 176 per cent over 1966.

Narcotics arrests among Marin adults and juveniles hit new peaks last year, jumping more than 200 per cent over 1966.

A reported 213 juveniles were arrested for involvement with marijuana and other drugs last year compared with 65 in 1966. The number of adults arrested for narcotic offenses was 255 compared with 76 the previous year, according to statistics from the Marin County Sheriff's Office. Detailed figures were published in the Independent-Journal in January.

Lynch said the great bulk of the juvenile arrests, 10,987, were because of marijuana. These arrests increased 172 per cent in 1967 over the previous year.

Other drug arrests included 2,809 for dangerous drugs, 134 for heroin and hard narcotics, 138 for narcotic use by addicts and 692 for miscellaneous drug offenses.

Lynch said last year's drug arrests among adults totaled 47,032, an increase of 66 per cent over the previous year. The majority were for marijuana, a classification which increased 87 per cent.

Of the adult arrests, 51 per cent occurred in Los Angeles County.

Riots' Victims Get Tax Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it will not penalize taxpayers who miss the April 15 income tax filing deadline because of lost records or other direct results of recent racial disorders.

But while the 5 per cent penalty will not be assessed, the IRS said it must by law charge one-half of one per cent interest per month on overdue taxes.

The service said taxpayers affected must file returns as quickly as possible and enclose letters establishing the delay was caused by the disturbances and was outside the taxpayer's control.

Announcing Chevrolet's new Torque-Drive.

Torque-Drive does away with the clutch pedal. Most of the shifting, too. And for the most economy, it's available exclusively on all Camaro sixes and Chevy II Nova 4- and 6-cylinder models.

Look how simple it is. You accelerate in 1st; then shift to Hi for cruising. That's all.

If you like, you can even start in Hi. And accelerate from standstill to cruising speed. It's just a little slower that way.

The shift lever is conveniently located on the steering column, and there's a selector quadrant with easy-to-read indications: Park-R-N-Hi-1st. Only your Chevrolet dealer has it—clutchless driving at only $68.65.

The first no clutch one shift $68.65* transmission

A resolution establishing salaries for Ross town officers will be discussed tomorrow at a meeting of the town council scheduled for 8 p.m. in the town hall.

Also up for discussion will be an estimate of road and street needs for a report to the State Division of Highways and a budget for the streets and parks will be presented.

Japanese Gets Renewal Project

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city has hired a famed Japanese architect for a prime redevelopment project.

Kaza Tenge, creator of Tokyo's master plan, will draft the concept for the Yerba Buena Center, it was announced yesterday.

Tenge said he wants to design an impressive "urban complex" that will brighten up the South of Market area.

Liberal Czech Bosses Start On Reforms

PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovakia's liberal new Communist Party today disclosed a series of sweeping domestic reforms, including safeguards against a police state. The new regime also was reported removing tank barriers along the border with West Germany, and hinted at reconciliation with Bonn.

The "New Action" program restricted the operations of the state security police. It said it must be assured that "no citizen can be questioned by the state security for his political convictions." The service must confine its activities to fighting "enemies abroad," it said.

The state security police is concerned with foreign affairs while the public security agency keeps internal order and fights crime.

The proposal that state and public security must be strictly separated was part of the Communist Party's reforms listed in a 24,000-word "new action" program.

It also promised new rights to travel and even migrate to other countries.

The program set the guidelines for "liberalization" of Czechoslovakia proposed by Alexander Dubcek, the new party leader who succeeded Stalinist Antonin Novotny in January.

The program also gave prospects for increased production of quality consumer goods and services and even a five-day work week and wage increases.

The body of Jan Masaryk will be exhumed if it is necessary to clear up the circumstances that led to his mysterious death in 1948, it was reported.

The official cause of death was given as suicide. But the prosecutor general of the newly liberalized Communist regime reopened the case two weeks ago after a published review in Prague suggested that Masaryk had been murdered.

Poland's Reds Choose New President

WARSAW (AP) — Poland's Communist party chose Defense Minister Marian Spychalski, 61, today to serve in the ceremnial office of president, PAP news agency reported. His election by Parliament is virtually assured.

Changes in the cabinet also were in prospect as the purge of government and Communist party ranks continued in the wake of student unrest.

Although Ochab, who is nearly blind, cited health in asking to be relieved as president, a Yugoslav report said his name had been linked recently with the student unrest which erupted in antigovernment rioting last month.

The report, by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, said the officials to be replaced are members of the faction which spent the war in the Soviet Union. It indicated they were losing out to the ultranationalist faction of World War II Communist underground fighters led by Maj. Gen. Mieczyslaw Moczar, the minister of interior and head of the secret police.

Most of those to be ousted are also Jews, Tanjug said. A number of Jews already have been dismissed as a result of the student disturbances, which the government has blamed on Zionists, revisionists and former Stalinists.

Fete Replaced By Youth Project

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rockefeller interests and their partners plan no fancy champagne groundbreaking ceremonies for their $200 million Embarcadero Center.

Instead, they will donate money for a children's playground, it was announced yesterday.

Plans call for work to be done by half a dozen minority-group youths, under supervision of a minority-group contractor.

The park will be created on a vacant lot on O'Farrell Street, between Scott and Divisadero.

Human Rights Incumbents Reappointed

Five members of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, whose terms expire on May 17, were reappointed without discussion this morning by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Reappointed for another two years were Commissioners Bella Aaron, Rev. Francis Geddes, Richard Harding, Troy Lewis and Mrs. Tommie Scott.

Other reappointments approved by the supervisors this morning were:

Chairman Eugene R. Trombley to the Marin County Planning Commission for a four-year term.

Philip S. Ehrlich to the Marin Redevelopment Agency for a four-year term. The term of James A. Duckworth on the redevelopment agency also expires a week from today, but Duckworth said he does not want reappointment. The supervisors decided that since Duckworth represents the North Marin area, organizations in North Marin will be asked for recommendations on possible candidates to succeed Duckworth.

Robert A. Smith of 1042 Las Pavadas, Terra Linda, to the Terra Linda Recreation Park District to succeed Patrick Martin, who moved out of the county. Two others had applied for the job, Lyle Borcherding of 624 Woodbine Drive and E. F. Sthymmel of 4280 Redwood Highway. Supervisor John F. McInnis said all are "fine men" but he favored Smith because he has been active in fund raising for the district teen-age group and is coordinating recreation between Terra Linda and San Rafael.

City Crime Rate Climbs In March

Robberies during March were up 31 per cent over the same month last year, from 312 to 408, he said, and auto thefts increased 24 per cent from 910 to 1,126.

Homicides went up from 3 to 9 cases.

LSD Lost; Judge Releases Suspect

A Marin City man, arrested during February's county-wide narcotics roundup for allegedly selling LSD, was released in Marin Municipal Court yesterday when the district attorney reported the evidence has been lost.

James Edward Brewster, 30, of 915 Drake Avenue, was freed.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas said the evidence, LSD which was allegedly sold to agents of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau, has been mislaid in the offices of the State Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement in San Francisco.

MAY TURN UP

It may be found later, somewhere in the mass of evidence collected by agents during their four-month undercover investigation, Thomas said.

Brewster had been acheduled to undergo a preliminary hearing yesterday. He was freed for failure by the district attorney to prosecute.

In another preliminary hearing yesterday, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. ruled illegal a search the night of the roundup at the home of Clayton and Elizabeth Blackmore at 121 Grove Street, Corte Madera.

Agents reportedly found about a half pound of marijuana in the house that night and arrested the couple for possession of marijuana for sale.

NO WARRANT

There was no search warrant and Judge Goldstein said the agents did not have sufficient cause to enter the house.

They went to the house that night to arrest Blackmore for allegedly selling one-eighth of an ounce of hashhish to an agent Feb. 14.

Blackmore was held to answer on that charge.

Patrick Courtney, 40, of Gate 5, Sausalito, was held to answer by Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday on a charge that he sold more than a kilo of marijuana to a drug abuse agent.

Courtney, also arrested during the roundup, was ordered to appear in Superior Court on the charge April 29.

In Superior Court today, James Bell, Robert Drolla and Robert Nelson, all of San Rafael, pleaded innocent to charges that they sold large quantities of methedrine and conspired to sell methedrine to agents of the drug abuse bureau during the undercover investigation.

JURY TRIALS

Jury trial for the three was scheduled for May 27.

Bell also denied a charge that he and Jan DeBruyn of Novato sold two kilos of marijuana to an agent for $200 Jan. 23 at Bell's home, 11B Taylor Street, San Rafael.

Jury trial on that charge was scheduled for June 17.

Youngster Runs In Front Of Car, Gets Head Injury

A four-year-old Fairfax boy suffered a severe head injury today when he was struck by a car near the Caprice restaurant on Paradise Drive in Tiburon.

David A. Toulon of 108 Dominga Avenue, had been fishing with his father, Louis J. Toulon at Elephant Rock next to the restaurant. David ran across the road to meet his mother, according to sheriff's Lt. William Johansen. A car driven by Mrs. Agnes B. Kircher, 80, of 1899 Mar West Street stopped at the stop sign then made a right turn from Mar West Street to Paradise Drive when the boy ran in front of the car at 9:30 a.m., Johansen reported.

Tiburon firemen assisted Johansen in giving the boy first aid until an ambulance arrived.

Johansen said the boy was treated at Marin General Hospital for a severe head injury, as well as scrapes and bruises.

Supervisors Plan Garbage Dump Parley

Marin County Board of Supervisors today invited Corte Madera Town Council to a joint meeting to smooth town-county relations which were ruffled last week over the proposed garbage dump in the marshlands in East Corte Madera.

The invitation came on a motion by Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, and supervisors approved it unanimously after rejecting counter-motion by Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, who declared that a simple resolution would make the joint meeting unnecessary.

Kettenhofen suggested a resolution declaring that the county will not acquire any land within any city for a dump, park or any other governmental use without getting official acquiescence from the city affected.

The other four supervisors voted down Kettenhofen's resolution, because it might tie the county's hands in future development that might be needed within the boundaries of cities.

The date for the joint meeting will be arranged between the county administrator's staff and the town manager's office in Corte Madera.

PAY REFUSALS

Shut Offs Threatened In Utility Districts

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night recommended the city engineer be empowered to shut off service to persons refusing to pay their way in existing underground utility district.

The unanimous vote on the amendment to the underground utility ordinance, recommended by City Atty. David Menary Jr., came with no discussion.

The amendment, if approved by the city council, would apply to property owners in existing districts who refuse to pay to have their utility lines extended underground to the main line.

The property owner would be given 30 days notice to pay. If he did not, the city engineer would be authorized to shut off his electricity and telephone service.

Commissioners selected that amendment over one which would have allowed the city to do the job for the taxpayer, then place a tax lien on his property.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

SUBDIVISION — Agreed to allow Union Oil Co. of California to divide property at 80 Medway Road into two 110 by 90 foot lots on conditions that no drainage be discharged onto adjacent properties, a new sidewalk be installed along the property and a copy of the record of survey be supplied to the planning department.

MARKET — Approved the design of a Speedee 7-11 Market Building to be built on one of the new lots. Attached conditions are that there be landscaping and no signs on the building flash or rotate.

ROOF SIGN — Approved an illuminated roof sign for a rental equipment center at 116 Jacoby Street.

CHURCH — Approved small directional signs at the Terra Linda interchange and the north corner of the frontage road and Professional Center Parkway, leading to the Unitarian Universalist Church of Marin. The approval is for one year.

MILK — Approved plans for alterations on the distribution plant of Borden Milk Co. at 643 Fourth Street. The changes are necessitated by the widening of Highway 101 and installation of a new frontage road there.

APARTMENTS — Asked that the Marin County Planning Commission delay action on proposed rezoning of land between Smith Ranch Road to planned multiple residential. The land is within the city's area of interest and planners have expected it to be zoned either for industrial or office buildings. The county planning commission has scheduled a public hearing on the rezoning for Monday.

ADJOURN — Agreed to adjourn from their regular meeting April 23 to a meeting April 30, when public hearings on zoning ordinance amendments will be held.

Fred C. Robbins, chairman, was absent.

Paris Bullion Fever Easing

PARIS (UPI)—Activity on the Paris gold market today returned to normal pre-crisis levels for the first time in a month.

Trading volume was down to $1 million, regarded as the normal level for the gold exchange here.

On March 15, when the Paris gold fever was at its peak, trading volume reached $43.8 million.

Bank Glass Broken

A large cement block was thrown through a window of the Montecito branch of the Bank of America at 333 Third Street, San Rafael yesterday, said police. No attempt was made to gain entry to the building, officers reported.

Arab, Israeli Trade Boasts Of Military

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt said today it had replaced its losses in the June war and was ready to move from resistance to the "stage of scoring victory" over Israel.

The statement came from Gen. Mohamed Fawzi, United Arab Republic war minister, who said in Cairo the Egyptian armed forces had taken the slogan "victory or martyrdom."

In Jerusalem, Israeli chief of staff Maj. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev said Israel's armed forces still are stronger than those of its Arab neighbors and "we intend to maintain this lead."

Meanwhile, strife along the cease-fire line between Jordan and Israel took a new bloody turn. Jordan reported two Arabs died and a third was injured when their military vehicle exploded a mine planted by the Israelis.

It was the first report of the placing of mines in Arab territory. The Arabs started planting mines inside Israel 20 years ago. It was seen as Israel's reply to increased Arab commando activities along the line.

Fawzi said the UAR lost 80 per cent of its equipment in the June War but the Soviet Union already had replaced the losses.

Thieu Asks Laws For National Mobilization

SAIGON (UPI)—With U. S. pressure being exerted in the background, President Nguyen Van Thieu today asked legislative approval for a general mobilization to meet the Communist threat to Vietnam.

An extensive mobilization and increased South Vietnamese fighting ability would put Thieu in a better position to ward off any move toward formation of a coalition government with the Communists.

His resolve today that the Communists would never be allowed into a coalition won him his warmest applause from the National Assembly.

"I recognize the need for general mobilization of manpower and resources," Thieu said. "I beg the Congress to debate and approve this immediately."

He did not spell out the details of his request for total war footing, but it apparently involved increased financial and economic regulatory authority for the president and authority to increase the military draft.

Mother, Child Hurt In Wreck

A Point Reyes mother and her 2-year-old son were injured yesterday in a single-car accident on Railroad Avenue in Woodacre.

Theressa J. Giammona, 22, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with scalp cuts and possible internal injuries. Her son, Michael, was treated for superficial scrapes.

A witness told the California Highway Patrol that the Giammona car slid off a curve on the gravel, fishtailed back on the road, then off again, hit a tree and then landed in a ditch at 2 p.m.

First aid was given by Marin County Fire Department members, patrolmen said.

Sea Search Ends For Marinite

The Coast Guard last night called off its extensive search for Arthur Piver of Mill Valley, 10 days overdue while sailing his 25-foot trimaran from Sausalito to San Diego.

Coast Guard spokesmen said the search would be resumed only if "further developments" occur, such as word of Piver or his boat.

Seven planes scoured 50,000 miles of ocean yesterday concentrating on southern and Baja California where, the Coast Guard has speculated, Piver might have drifted if the trimaran was damaged. The planes have searched 300 miles south of the Mexican border and 350 miles out to sea.

Piver, 58, left San Francisco Bay March 17 alone on his triple hulled boat. He was carrying a radio receiver but no transmitter.

Humphrey Said Sure To Join Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will definitely seek the Democratic presidential nomination. Only the time and place for his announcement remain to be decided.

A source close to the Vice President disclosed that Humphrey would enter the race soon against Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy. One of the first signs will be establishment of a "Citizens for Humphrey" organization.

Executive director for the Citizens for Humphrey group is expected to be Kenneth M. Birkhead, who was a top official with "Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey," which folded last week when President Johnson declared he would not be a candidate for re-election.

In addition, a labor committee working for Humphrey for President is expected to be set up soon.

Humphrey is not pictured as coy or vacillating in delaying the announcement, his timing will depend largely on events — including Vietnam strategy talks and the aftermath of the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

California Highway Patrolman Frank S. Faris seeks to help Peter K. White, 45, of 558 Loganberry Drive, Marinwood, whose car skidded off Lucas Valley Road three miles west of Highway 101 at 9:45 p.m. yesterday and slammed into a tree. White, his wife, Martha, and a son, Francis, 11, were kept at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for observation and treatment of cuts and bruises. Two other White children, David, 14, and Cornelia, 15, were treated for cuts. White was cited for unsafe speed. (Independent-ournal photo by Bob Hax)

Sanitary Merger Policy Reviewed

The Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District Board last night went over a consensus report it is preparing among southern Marin sanitary districts on a proposed unfied district covering all of southern Marin.

The district's next step will be to petition the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to form the district, which would be administered as a county sanitation district or be run by the Marin Municipal Water District.

The board also ordered bids to be taken for a standby pump to handle storm overloads in the district system.

The board adjourned to meet at 7 p.m. today at 305 Bell Lane to discuss policy on manhole spacing.

BEATING THE TRAFFIC

An auto belonging to Robert S. Farley of 113 Brentano Way, Greenbrae, was hoisted above the home of Mrs. Lydia Young (left) of 105 Bretano Way yesterday. The car plunged down an embankment Saturday and hit the Young's patio. A tow truck couldn't remove the auto, so Marin Storage and Trucking Inc. of San Rafael was called in with a crane. (Independent-Journal photo)

Marin Had Its Problems In Dawn Of Computer Age

supervisors the computer would justify its cost by the work it could do for his office and those of the assessor and treasurer-tax collector. Data processing was put under the auditor-controller.

In fiscal 1957, the county merely dipped its toe into computer use, spending $1,639.48 for data processing. But the following fiscal year, the new bureau was in operation, with seven employees, and spent $58,534.23. Of this, $26,544.82 was charged back to other users, including county departments, the appraisal commission then at work on the county's real property rolls, and city and municipal agencies.

Such charge-backs, in the opinion of de Lisle and his successor, Michael Mitchell, represent savings to the departments involved. The same amount of book work done in the departments would require many more clerks, in this view.

The data processing bureau had some initial difficulties getting clients, however. Of the three departments which de Lisle said would justify the installation, only the assessor made much use of it in fiscal 1958, giving it $6,342.38 worth of work. The bureau did only $17.22 for the treasurer-tax collector, and only $762.16 for the auditor.

Lack of sufficient work for the computer was to prove a recurrent complaint, voiced many times by Arleigh Sewell, who became the first chief of data processing and continued off-and-on in the job until last year.

A twin complaint that kept recurring was that the computer the county had leased (one does not buy these things) was incapable of handling some jobs that were offered.

That was what brought "George" to the county.

Sewell and Mitchell argued that a bigger computer could handle more jobs, therefore could be kept more constantly busy and would be more economical. In response to this, the board of supervisors on April 24, 1962, approved rental of the IBM 1401 that was installed the following August.

As the new machine began flipping out columns of figures at fantastic speed, the demand for its services picked up rapidly. Data processing, it appeared, had "turned the corner." The lead of an Independent-Journal story of Oct. 8 of that year said:

"There are so many Marin County departments and outside agencies wanting to use 'George,' the county's new 1401 data processing machine, that the board of supervisors will be asked tomorrow to hire a new man to feed material to the versatile machine."

Next day the board approved the additional man, a data processing programmer, at $9,120 per year.

And County Clerk George H. Gnoss, who up to then had made no use of data processing, announced it would be used to tally results of the Nov. 6 general election.

Boy, 15, Drowns In Marin Lake

Robert Martin Lund, on spring vacation from Polytechnic High School in San Francisco, hitchhiked from San Francisco to the lake with three classmates, Asst. County Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said.

Michelle Mulholland, 15, of San Francisco, said Lund dove from the log jam into the lake and swam until he began shouting for help, 15 feet from shore. He was not a good swimmer, the coroner said.

Swimming in any of the lakes of the Marin Municipal Water District is prohibited, board secretary B. J. Brusatori said today, and signs are posted.

Miss Mulholland swam out and grabbed the sinking boy, but he began to pull her under and she had to release him, Fontaine said.

A passing hiker, Michael Gallagher, 26, of 723 Cypress Street, Fairfax, heard calls of distress and dove into the 15-foot deep water in search of Lund. He could not find him.

Gallagher then ran a half mile to his car and raced to the Fairfax Fire Department. He then stopped at his house, got his diving gear, and returned to the drowning scene with firemen from the county and Fairfax departments.

Gallagher dove into the water and found Lund's body after four minutes of searching. Firemen applied a resuscitator for one hour before the boy was pronounced dead.

County Fire Chief Louis Bloom said Gallagher's attempt to rescue the boy was heroic.

Nevada Asks Retention Of Trains

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has ended a series of Nevada hearings on proposals to discontinue two passenger trains.

Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt summed up the state's case yesterday. He said officials and residents all along the route opposed the plan and the ICC should reject it.

Southern Pacific railroad wants to eliminate its City of San Francisco and Western Pacific seeks to discontinue its California Zephyr. The roads say the train are losing propositions.

"There is a need for railroad passenger service in this region," Laxalt said.

He said many northern Nevada communities do not have air service and bus service cannot fill the transportation gap.

Purse Snatcher Out-Wrestled

When a long-haired teen-ager tried to grab the purse of Lorna G. Hersom near her home in the 1600 block of Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael last night, she just wouldn't let go.

For several moments, they both held their ground. Eventually, the would-be snatcher let go and ran. The purse flipped back and hit Mrs. Hersom on the nose.

Dazed but happy with her purse intact, the victim was able to give police a description of her attacker. He was aged about 15, five feet, nine inches tall, medium build and wore a light colored plaid shirt, dark-colored pants and soft-soled shoes.

Old Watch Clue Sought In Slaying

A big pocket watch, made in Italy, is the latest link sought in the single-bullet slaying of wealthy Marin dairy rancher Carlos A. Silveira on his Marinwood ranch March 5.

Inspector Bowen Bridges of the sheriff's office said the watch, measuring three and three-quarters inches in diameter, was stolen from a car which was taken from the Silveira ranch the night before the 41-year-old rancher was slain.

The car was found abandoned in Ukiah, but the watch was missing.

Bridges said today he has asked police pawn shop details in nine western states to be on the alert for the watch.

The time piece is encased with silver, dulled by wear, he said. On its face are large, bold, black Roman numerals. Somewhere on the watch is an inscription indicating it was made in a city in Italy.

Mary E. Silveira, mother of the slain rancher, has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the capture and conviction of the murderer.

"Normally, when a reward is offered we are flooded with calls," Bridges said today. "We have had very few calls in this case."

The investigation is still continuing, Bridges said, but little progress is being made.

Silveira was gunned down by a single bullet to the heart as he stepped from his car the night of March 5. Inspectors said the missing weapon was probably a .32-20 revolver.

Turkey Makes Easter Entree

With the super-abundance of turkeys on the market this year, more families will be enjoying them for Easter than ever before.

The secret of success is to serve it in a new and unusual setting. For Easter choose a menu that features the vegetables and salads of spring. An Easter basket, a cake, or Easter lilies can be your centerpiece. By changing your traditional stuffing recipe, yon can even dress the turkey for Easter.

Suggested is a bacon and cornbread stuffing recipe, delightful for Easter because the golden cornbread provides such a colorful background for the green Pascal celery, lavender-tinted shallots and bits of crisp bacon.

A Calla lily garnish can be made the day before. So can a spiced gelatin salad. Directions are given here for both.

BACON 'N CORNBREAD STUFFING

- 2 8 oz. pkg. cornbread stuffing
- 1 cup water
- ¼ lb. butter or margarine
- ½ cup bacon drippings
- 1 cup shallots, sliced
- 1 cup Pascal celery, chopped
- ½ cup celery tops, snipped
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

Prepare cornbread stuffing according to package directions using 1 cup water and ¼ lb. butter or margarine.

Meanwhile, using kitchen scissors, snip bacon into ½ inch pieces and cook until crisp. Use ½ cup bacon drippings to saute shallots and celery 5 to 7 minutes, until tender. Combine all ingredients with stuffing. Taste for seasonings.

Stuff and truss the turkey. Roast according to directions. Yield: 9 cups stuffing, enough for 14-16 lb. turkey.

Note: This is also a delicious stuffing to serve with baked ham, pork chops, chicken or spareribs in place of the usual potato or starch vegetable. Place stuffing in a 2-qt. casserole, cover and bake 30 minutes in 350° F. oven.

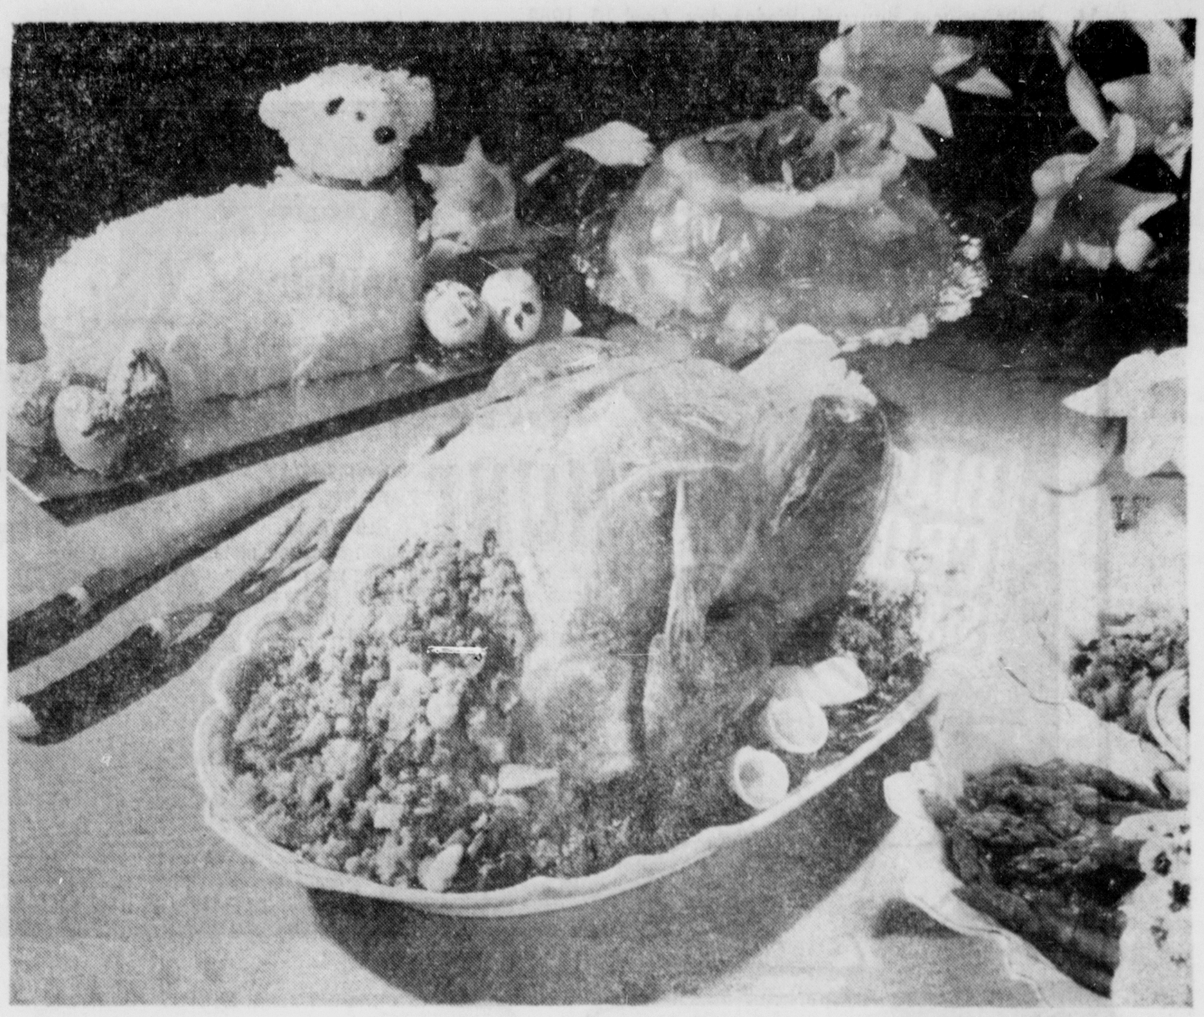
CALLY LILY GARNISH

Pare a large white turnip with a vegetable scraper. Cut turnip in very thin crosswice slices and roll to form a calla lily. Insert a carrot strip for the stamen and use parsley, mint or watercress for foliage. Fasten with a toothpick. May stand in water overnight. Place around turkey on bed of parsley.

SPICED JELLIED APRICOTS

- 2¼ cups apricot juice
- ¾ cup vinegar
- 1½ cups sugar
- 36 whole cloves
- 3 sticks cinnamon
- 36 canned apricot halves
- 3 pkgs. orange gelatin
- ¼ cup maraschino cherries, diced

Combine apricot juice, vinegar, sugar and spices; bring to boil. Add apricots; simmer 10 minutes. Remove apricots, strain syprup and add boiling water to make six cups. Dissolve orange gelatin in hot liquid. Chill until slightly thickened. Add cherries and apricots. Pour into fancy 2 qt. mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with watercress. Serve with cottage cheese as a salad or serve plain as a relish. Yield 18 servings.



VARIATIONS ON an Easter theme—turkey stuffed with cornbread dressing with Easter salad and dessert and Calla lily garnish make a festive meal for a large group.

Easter Centerpiece

For a table centerpiece at Easter that's both edible and decorative fill a lacy basket with chocolate and colored candy eggs plus lots of in-shell California walnuts which have first been sprayed gold. Attach narrow velvet ribbons in a complimentary color to the underside of the basket and run them to the placecards.

Not Necessary

In using recipes containing sweetened condensed milk, such as cakes, pies, frozen and other desserts, candies, or salad dressings, it is unnecessary to add sugar because sugar has already been blended and cooked into the milk during processing.

A Quick Garnish

Make a quick, colorful garnish and vegetable for roasted boneless netted lamb shoulder or netted leg by reconstituting instant yam flakes with half orange juice and half water. Add butter and a pinch of ground ginger. Spoon mashed yams around roast.

How About Easter Egg Cake For A Dessert Spectacular?

The Easter dinner menu will be incomplete without a spectacular dessert. What could be more appropriate than an Easter Egg Cake?

May we suggest a New Orleans molasses chiffon delicacy which is presented as a festive ending to your holiday dinner? The cake is assembled easily. The batter, baked in melon molds, forms the egg shape. Frosted and decorated with a butter frosting, it is a dessert you will present with pride. And you can be assured, the cake will be enjoyed to the last crumb after being duly admired.

EASTER EGG CAKE

- 5 medium egg yolks
- 1 cup egg whites (7 or 8 medium eggs)
- 2¼ cups sifted flour
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup salad oil
- ¾ cup water
- ⅓ cup molasses
- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar

About 1 hour before preparing cake, set out egg yolks and whites. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into a large bowl. Make a well in center; pour in salad oil. Add egg yolks, water and molasses; beat until smooth. Pour egg whites into another large bowl;* add cream of tartar. Beat at high speed until very stiff. Fold egg yolk mixture into egg whites. Pour into 2 ungreased 1½ quart melon molds. Bake at 325°F. about 55 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cakes thoroughly by placing cakes flat side down so that end edges of molds rest on inverted baking cups. Carefully remove from pans.

Cut a thin slice from one cake so cake will stand level on plate. Put cakes togther (flat surfaces together) with Butter Cream Frosting.* Frost outside of cake. Decorate to resemble Easter egg with pastry tube. Makes 8-10 servings.

Butter Cream Frosting

- ¼ pound sweet butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 pound confectioners' sugar, sifted
- 3 to 4 tablespoons milk (approximately)

Cream together butter, vanilla and salt until fluffy. Add sugar and milk alternately, beating well after each addition.

THE PERFECT finale for the Easter feast . . . a delicate molasses chiffon cake presented as an Easter egg to suit the occasion.

Danish Coffee Cake Filled With Strawberry Preserves And Pecans

STRAWBERRY DANISH COFFEE CAKE

- 1 package hot roll mix
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup hard butter
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ⅔ cup warm (not hot) water

Filling

- ¾ cup strawberry preserves
- ½ cup ground pecans
- ½ cup chopped golden raisins

Glaze

- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 4 to 5 teaspoons milk
- Oven 375°

Yield: 2 coffee cakes

Coffee Cake: Combine flour mixture and sugar in 3-quart mixing bowl. Cut in hard butter until mixture has particles the size of peas. Soften yeast in warm water. Stir in egg. Add to dry mixture. Beat until smooth. Cover bowl with aluminum foil. Let rise in warm, moist place until doubled in size. Punch down. Divide in half.

Roll half of dough on floured surface to a 15x8-inch rectangle. Spread with half of filling (⅔ cup). Roll as for jelly roll, starting with 15-inch side. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Fold half the roll on top of other half, sealing ends together. Starting at folded end, cut with a scissors down center of roll to within 1 inch of other end. Turn cut halves flat on side, cut side up, to form a V-shape. Repeat for remaining dough. Let rise until doubled in size, 45 to 60 minutes. Bake at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheet. Cool slightly. Drizzle with glaze.

Filling: Combine preserves, pecans and raisins. Spread on dough.

Meatloaf Meal With Vegetables, Spinach Salad

Roslyn's Meat Loaf Bread Tray
Skillet Corn and Tomatoes
Fresh Spinach Salad
Sherbet Cookies

ROSLYN'S MEAT LOAF

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons dried onion soup mix (just as it comes from envelope)
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Fresh ground pepper to taste
- ½ teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 cup (about 2 slices) soft bread crumbs
- 1 pound beef (top round), ground
- ½ pound ground pork

In a medium mixing bowl, beat eggs slightly. Add milk, onion soup mix, parsley, salt, pepper, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and soft bread crumbs. Let stand for about 5 minutes to soak bread; add meat and mix thoroughly. Shape into a loaf about 8 by 4 by 3 inches in a shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 50 minutes.

Glazing The Easter Ham Gives It A Festive Air

Glazing a ham might be classified as gilding the lily, yet Easter dinner seems to call for that extra touch.

Thirty minutes before the end of baking time, remove the ham from the oven, score fat (cut in shallow crisscross gashes), stick with cloves, spread with a glaze and return to the oven (325°F.)

1. Brown Sugar Glaze. Mix together 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and enough orange juice or pineapple juice to moisten. Or combine ¾ cup brown sugar with ¾ cup crushed pineapple.
2. Honey Glaze. Mix 1 cup honey with ½ cup orange marmalade; or use honey alone.
3. Molasses Glaze. Srpead ham with 1 cup molasses.
4. Jelly Glaze. Mix together 1 cup red jelly with ¼ cup horseradish.
5. Cranberry Glaze. Mix together 1 can whole or jellied cranberry sauce, mashed with a fork, and ½ cup light corn syrup; or use cranberry sauce alone.

What To Do With The Easter Eggs

Instead of staring at a bowl of psychedelic-hued eggs and wondering how to use them, take heart . . . here's a delicious way to put them to use. Prepare a sauce using canned cream of chicken soup thinned with milk or cream. Spice the sauce with curry powder and add the shelled, chopped, hard-cooked eggs plus ¼ cup toasted walnuts for every two eggs. The walnuts provide the extra flavor and crunch. Serve piping hot over cooked asparagus on thick squares of cornbread.

Veteran Volunteer Retired To Travel

Sixteen years ago this month Mrs. Julian Rice, then a resident of San Francisco, climbed over planks and mud to be interviewed as a prospective Pink Lady at Marin General Hospital.

The hospital was in the process of construction, and Mrs. Rice, who had had years of experience both as a chemist in a hospital and as a hospital volunteer, was being considered as one of the small group of ladies who would participate in the open house which was to mark the official opening of Marin General in June, 1952.

Today, almost two decades later, Mrs. Rice has retired as a part of the Marin General "family," with thousands of hours of volunteer activity behind her, and hundreds of friends among the hospital staff.

MRS. RICE, a graduate of MIT, class of 1915, has decided to give up her labor of love in the Marin General surgery, where she did "whatever there was to do." She is leaving Marin County for a trip to Europe and then will live in Bronxville, Westchester County, outside of New York City.

But she leaves a daughter and son-in-law in Tamalpais Valley, and two granddaughters here, and her multitude of friends at Marin General are convinced she will be back with them one day.

Mrs. Rice moved to Marin County at almost the same time that Marin General opened. Since she was a tour guide in surgery during the open house week, she found she liked that department, and she stayed there.

Mrs. Rice, who had worked as the chief chemist in the research laboratory in a New York hospital during World War I after being graduated from MIT, moved to California in 1951 so that her youngest son could attend the University of California.

A YEAR later she bought some acreage in Tam Valley and became a resident of Marin County.

On two occasions, in 1960 and in 1964, she left to spend some time in Paris, taking courses in psychiatry and psychology at the University of Paris. When she returned from the second trip, she moved to Mill Valley, where she has lived for the past three years.

From 1952 until last November, Mrs. Rice spent at least three days a week in the surgery department at Marin General. At that time, she decided to taper off a bit, and reduced her activities to only two days a week — and Mrs. Rice's days are from 8 a.m. to

Family Picnic At Angel Island, Easter Brunch For The Moppet Set

By MOLLY MARIN

One of the highlights of the year for the Sausalito Yacht Club was a family picnic Sunday at Angel Island attended by 350 members and guests. Most of the members went in their own or friends' boats, and non boat-owners were taken in the new motor sailer belonging to Dick Simon. Chairman of the event was Chris Wagner. Junior members of the club took the picnickers from the anchored boats to the shore in a skiff, charging 10 cents. Proceeds will be to buy a sailboat for the junior sailing program.

MRS. WILLIAM H. Shoard of Belvedere and Rawson White of Corte Madera were married at the Wishing Well Wedding Chapel in Las Vegas, Nev., March 29. Attending the couple were Capt. and Mrs. Lars Weseth of Tiburon. Mr. White, a widower, is the father of Mrs. Joseph B. Wallace of Corte Madera and Shelley Charles White of San Francisco. Albert E. Christoph of St. Louis, Mo., is the brother of Mrs. White, who was the widow of William H. Shoard of Belvedere. The couple will live in Belvedere.

A BON VOYAGE party for Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gomes of San Francisco, who are leaving soon for a two month vacation in Europe will be given by their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Rosano of Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Ross of Greenbrae, at the Rosano home on Saturday. Guests will be Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Lloyd of Novato, Richard Tanneyhill of Ross, John Raggi of Kentfield, Joseph Ramblas of Tiburon, Wiliam Bradley and Richard Chicca of Greenbrae.

AN EASTER egg hunt for pre-school children and a pinata for the older children, will highlight the family Easter brunch at San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Sunday. Brunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

THE WILLIAM J. Doucets of Marinwood, who were recently married in Wadsworth, Nev., are home after a trip to Hawaii, Seattle and Portland. They sailed aboard the Lurline for Honolulu, where his son, William Bradley Doucet, serving with the Seabees at Pearl Harbor, met them. Then the couple flew to the Northwest to visit the family of each. The new Mrs. Doucet is the former Mrs. Gordon L. Dokken of Marinwood.

MR. AND MRS. William Mueller and Mr. and Mrs. Don Ishmael, all of Lucas Valley, took a weekend cruise aboard the Lurline to Los Angeles. They stayed at the Disneyland Hotel and visited Marineland.

Some Ideas For Having A Hopping Good Easter Party For Youngsters

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

Have lots of eggs on hand — some hard-cooked and some raw. The hard-cooked eggs are meant to be dyed and then decorated. The raw ones are for fun, blow out, dye and trim.

If you get the undyed cooked and raw eggs mixed up, have children help unscramble them. Do this by spinning the eggs. The cooked eggs spin faster than the raw ones.

FOR THE blow-out part, use short lengths of soda straws and large bowls to catch the raw yolks and whites — unless you want the contents on you.

Try eggs in various sizes. If you find them at a local poultry market, duck eggs, larger than hen, are a special treat.

If you want the party to be eggs-actly like the Easter egg decorating party for children of United Nations delegates, run the party this way:

HAVE BOWLS of dye in each of six colors. Give children egg dippers, paper towels to help dry the eggs faster and wax pencils which they can use to write their names on the shells before coloring.

Once the eggs are dyed, the children should have a large assortment of trimming materials available. These can include anything available around the house — old earrings, scraps of fabric, broken beads, bits of ribbon and lace, and buttons.

To this, add lots of white glue, glitter, sequins, marking pens, and poster paints. Don't forget small nut cups, which are so handy for holding the eggs while they are being decorated.

Have prizes on hand for the funniest egg, the prettiest egg, the cleverest egg and the egg that looks most like a favorite cartoon character or pop art design.

ON THE AGENDA

Tour Of Glamorous Yachts Slated April 21 By League For Handicapped

A tour of some of the Bay Area's glamourous yachts is the inventive fund-raising idea which will be the first major event of the recently formed auxiliary of the California League for the Handicapped.

With the tour scheduled for 3 to 6 p.m. on April 21 at St. Francis Yacht Club on the San Francisco Marina, the yachts will be open for inspection at a time when both would-be captains and their first mates can view them. A champagne hour at the St. Francis clubhouse will follow the inspection visits.

Dan London's large cruiser, the Adventuress, berthed at St. Francis Yacht club, but frequently seen in Marin, whether the Londons are conducting celebrities on their famed bay cruises, or just relaxing at anchor at the Marin Yacht Club, will be an attraction. The ocean-going cutter, Pursuit, owned by Ronald MacAnnan of Sausalito, and registered to the San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere; the large sailing yacht Boreas, owned by E. C. Marier of San Rafael; La Reina, a luxury power cruiser owned by Coulter McKeever, who keeps the boat at Marin Yacht Club, San Rafael, and the Wololi of the St. Francis Yacht Club's power boat fleet, owned by Vice Commodore N. L. Fairbairn, are among the 10 yachts to be shown.

Expansion of the league's educational and recreational programs for blind children of the Bay Area is the goal of the fund-raiser. The league offers blind children a sports program, including bowling, swimming, hiking and tandem bike riding. Other activities are courses in home economics, including cooking, little theater and self improvement. A charm course, open to blind boys and girls of high school age will begin April 13 in San Francisco, and is open to Marin youngsters.

Mrs. Angus Dun of Greenbrae is yacht tour chairman.

"WHAT'S UNDER the Sea" will be the program tomorrow following the Outdoor Art Club 12:30 p.m. luncheon at the clubhouse in Mill Valley. Speaker will be Joel F. Gustafson, professor of biology at San Francisco State College. While on leave in 1960 he served as the associate director of the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco. For the previous six years he was executive director of the San Francisco Zoological Society.

Currently he is conducting a two-year ecological study of Bolinas Lagoon. He serves as consultant to the county and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers on mudflat and marshland ecology.

THE MILL Valley Guild of the Natural Science Museum, will have a "Trash and Treasures" rummage sale on April 20, had a wine tasting party Friday evening as a kick-off event at 230 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley. The sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Chairman is Mrs. John Simpson, who is being assisted by guild president Mrs. Richard Conlan.

A GROUP OF parents in the Novato and San Rafael areas are interested in forming a Parent Effectiveness Training Seminar to begin April 17. The group will meet from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. for eight consecutive Wednesdays. Participants will be asked to volunteer their homes for meetings. The first meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Guerin, 58 Maple Hill Dr., San Rafael.

California where over 1,500 parents have participated in the sessions. Parents who take PET report that they have a less frequent need to nag, prod, remind or cajole. The use of this method by parents who learn its skills and applications is said to develop children who are free from fear of authority, yet highly responsible; creative, yet not neurotic rebels; honest and open in expressing their feelings, yet not submissive conformists; independent and self directing, yet cooperative; loving and respectful toward parents, yet not totally dependent and servile. This attempts to eliminate the need for punishment, while it removes the roadblocks to effective communication.

Group leaders will be Mesdames Jack Danielson and A. B. Carr, both psychologists with the Dixie School District. Enrollment is limited to 25, and reservation chairmen are Mrs. Guerin and Mrs. Ray Tschalke.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Grandmother Wants A Society To Prevent Cruelty To Children

DEAR HELEN:

Where in our country is there a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children?

My little grandson lives with his mother who lives with a man who isn't her husband. She farms the boy out to his grandmother, her mother, a harridan whose dyed red hair and make-up-caked face scares him when he looks at her. They won't let me near him, as I'm his paternal grandmother, and I sided with my son.

When I try to get the boy back to decent surroundings, his mother moves again. She is living with a married man, and from what I hear, it's a wild, drinking life. I don't care if she ruins herself, but I do care about my grandson.

What can I do? — GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER:

Where is your son, the boy's father? Surely you and he together can manage a court order which will bring him custody, especially if you promise to provide a good home for him.

The Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children is your local Child Welfare Agency. Get in touch! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a married woman with three children and a wonderful husband who works long hours for us.

But I have an almost irresistible urge to get involved with another man. He is quite attractive and quite married too.

We have met several times, and I enjoyed every minute. We haven't done wrong, but we talk about it constantly. He's been urging me to let myself go ever since January.

What bothers me is that I sincerely love my husband and wouldn't ever want to hurt him. The thought of divorce chills me.

How can I possibly want two men? — MRS. TWO-FACED

DEAR MRS. T.F.:

Because at certain dull times in their lives women are no more monogamous than men. Almost every wife, if she's honest, will admit to a bit of extra-curricular dreaming. Should a charmer turn up at one of these times, she'll be tempted: through him, she sees herself as a desirable, seductive female, and she needs that feeling to counteract ironing board blues.

Face it, Mrs. Two-Faced, if you really wanted an affair, you'd have had it before now. You love your husband far too much to hurt him, but you're in love with the excitement of the chase, and you're taking an awful chance!

Get back to all-out wifehood with those six words: "The thought of divorce chills me." And by reminding yourself you risk it every time you meet the other man.

Then try a little seduction where it belongs — on your husband! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Some time ago I loaned some expensive maternity clothes to a friend on condition that they be returned when she was through with them.

When I finally asked for them back (as I needed them), she said she had had them altered to fit her. She did manage to send me two skirts, but have you ever seen a very mini-skirted pregnant woman? I haven't heard from her since. What burns me is she had so many clothes she didn't need mine. But I need them badly. My husband and I aren't all that wealthy.

What can I do? — TOO KIND-HEARTED

DEAR TKH:

Trot over and pick up your clothes, and, while you're there, borrow some of her maternity things to replace your unwearables. Surely a few will fit. — H.

QUACKS MOVE IN

Gullible Customers Are Easy Prey For These Charlatans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Where there's a wish, there's a way for the quack to move in on the gullible customer.

The old-fashioned spieler offering magical cures for all ills is disappearing from the scene, but he's replaced by more sophisticated pitchmen who bilk the ever-hopeful public for more than $2 billion a year. The trade is in odd-ball diets, off-beat treatments, or at best the useless pills, capsules and liquids. And their victims come from every educational and economic level.

Even more serious is the danger to those who are sidetracked from medical diagnosis and treatment needed, often delaying until it is too late.

PSEUDO-SCIENTIFIC quacks and the health cultists who promise everything from restored youth to cancer cures are discussed in a new publication of the Public Affairs Committee, a non-profit educational organization.

Called "Fads, Myths, Quacks — and Your Health," its author is Jacqueline Seaver, a specialist in writing of the health field.

One of the favorite areas of operations for the charlatans, she says, is in the diet field where they push peculiar diets or food fads. "Physicians agree that ordinary American meals normally should give youngsters and adults alike all the vitamins, minerals and other food elements they require," she says.

"OUR SOIL is not tired and devitalized," she says. "There is nothing wrong with eating frozen, canned or other processed foods. . . .

"Downing combinations like vinegar and honey or eating health foods won't hurt most people. What will hurt almost everyone, though, is following a lop-sided fad diet for long. Under such circumstances, nutrients needed by the body will be lacking in daily intake — and nobody can cut out dietary essentials over a period of time without losing health."

Miss Seaver discusses the hazards of the reducing pills, about which several medical journals have warned and which are under senate investigation.

There is just no easy way to lose weight, she says.

"CALORIES DO count. Rarely is overweight due to inheritance, glandular problems, or faulty body chemistry," she continues. "The only solution is willingness to go on a medically recommended regimen, and stay on it, possibly for a lifetime."

Many crippling and killing diseases offer opportunities for the quacks. Miss Seaver lists the areas of arthritis, where such "cures" as filtered sea water and alfalfa tablets are offered, cancer, epilepsy, high blood pressure, rupture, ulcers, and mental health among others.

How to tell a quack?

Miss Seaver says that while there is no sure rule for detecting a quack, if you ask yourself the following questions, the answers will probably give you the truth:

DOES THE "doctor" use a special machine or a "secret" remedy that he claims will cure the disease?

Does he say the medical profession is against him and has been trying to suppress his wonderful discovery?

How did you hear about the remedy or the "doctor"?

The author points out there are any number of organizations fighting health fraud — the U. S. government, the American Medical Association, the National Health Council, the Better Business Bureau, and such health and welfare organizations as the American Cancer Society and the Arthritis Foundation.

Canned Fruits Will Cost More

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American consumer will pay higher prices for canned fruits during the coming year, the manager of the California Canning Peach Association announced.

Manager Ralph Bunje said the increases in consumer prices would reflect higher costs for farm labor, farm supplies and equipment which have caught fruit growers in "an inflationary spiral."

He said a survey of cling peach growers showed payroll costs for orchard pruning were up 12.5 per cent this year — "an indicator that total production costs for the coming year will reach a new high."

Federation Of Women's Clubs Names Urban Award Finalists

Ten women's clubs have been named finalists in a $200,000 Community Improvement Program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Three other groups were selected as finalists in competition for special urban awards, and three clubs were selected as finalists for international awards.

A total of 11,835 women's clubs in 50 states and the District of Columbia participated in the two-year program, co-sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Thirteen clubs participated in the international program.

Winning projects included overall community development, beautification, safety programs, youth work, aid to hospitals, revising local government, improving water and sewer facilities and fighting hunger.

National finalists are located in Riverbank, Calif.; Hockessin, Del.; Boca Grande, Fla.; Jonesboro, Ga.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Miamisburg, Ohio; Doylestown, Pa.; Northfield, Vt.; Odessa, Wash., and Basin, Wyo.

A team of three judges chose the finalists on the basis of project reports. Judges will visit each community between April 15 and April 27 to determine national rankings. The 10 national awards are $10,000 for first place, $5,000 for second, $3,000 for third, $2,000 for fourth, $1,500 for fifth, and $1,000 for sixth through 10th place. All award money must be used for further community betterment, according to program rules.

Winners will be announced in Boston June 12 during the 77th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Community Improvement Program, inaugurated in 1955, is designed to stimulate clubwomen to develop and complete important community self-help projects. Emphasis is placed on involving entire communities in these efforts. Participating clubs during the last two years represented more than three-quarters of the federated women's clubs in the nation.

VOLUNTEER

3 p.m. In all, she has contributed more than 12,000 hours of volunteer effort to the hospital.

HER CURRENT travels include a bus trip to Vancouver, a train trip across Canada to Montreal so she can enjoy the Canadian Rockies, a few days in Washington, and then a journey to New York before she leaves for Europe.

She may take time to visit her alma mater, where three years ago she was honored as the Queen of the Class of 1915 when she and her classmates celebrated their 50th anniversary.

But no matter where she travels, or where she finally settles down, one thing is certain. There will always be a home for Mrs. Rice in the surgery department at Marin General Hospital.

Another Rift Developing On Textbooks

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The California Elementary School Administrators Association and the State Curriculum Commission disagree with Dr. Max Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction, about new reading textbooks.

The administrators voted at their convention yesterday to oppose "any individual or group, which seeks to subvert" the commission.

Commission members have urged adoption of a textbook series published by Harper & Row and Macmillan. Rafferty has said he will oppose appropriations for textbooks unless the State Board of Education adopts a reading series from the J.B. Lippincott Co.

The 276 convention delegates turned down a resolution which supported draft deferments for teachers. The action came after the delegates heard protests, that the deferments might put persons into teaching solely to avoid the draft.

Investment Class To Open Monday

A nine-week investment course will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday, at Redwood High School in Larkspur.

Violinist To Give Recital On April 18

Violinist Vlado Kolitsch, concertmaster of the Sonoma State College Philharmonic Orchestra, will appear in a recital at 11 a.m. April 18 in the recital hall of Ives Hall on the college campus.

The program will include "Chaccone" by Vitali-Auer, "Sonata op. 47" (Kreutzer) by Beethoven, "Sonata op. 5" by Josip Slavenski, "Sequida Espanola" by Joaquin Nin, "Roumanian Dances" by Bela Bartok, and "Yugoslav Dances" by Kolitsch.

ART REVIEW

Spirit Of Nostalgia By Young Frenchman

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Oils, watercolors and ink drawings by French artist Boris Kipar through April 22 at the San Marco Gallery, Dominican College, and 19th Century copperplates through April 14 at the Musee d'Art International, San Rafael, offer Marin a sudden abundance of European art.

The graphics at the Musee d'Art span 1825-1925, a period and an exhibit including Cezanne, Manet, Degas, Renoir, Vlaminck, Matisse, Chagall and Modigliani, among others.

ANTIQUE LOOK

In general, these etchings and engravings plus some lithographs from the same period have a quiet, antique look about them. However, the stylistic suggestions of artists' more important painted works are there and so these prints do offer a less demonstrative but interesting facet of these once avant garde talents.

By comparison, Kipar's Dominican show makes him seem an anachronism. Here is a young, present-day painter working in a late 19th Century style and this would seem merely old-fashioned except for the nostalgia he evokes.

His work has an untroubled naivete about it. Dashes and dots of impressionistic hues race happily through his landscapes with a direct, almost childlike freedom. And there's a cool restfulness about the blue-green shadows on his figures or deep within his lawns and gardens.

But it's the innocence of his other work that is most appealing. Paintings, such as one dauby vase of flowers are as pure and personal as memories of real blooms caught in morning light of a fresh, new day.

The long corridors of paintings are interrupted by doors opening on to the thick scent of turpentine, the whir of potters' wheels and leaning stacks of cardboard, wood and canvas — new creative efforts, some inept, some promising that represent, as do Kipar's paintings, a sort of lost joy in simple discovery.

IT'S REAL

The whole scene has a basic enthusiasm lacking in art's current intellectualism. It isn't deep but it's honest. It isn't mature but it's real.

And there's something to be said for that too, even if only nostalgically.

Extra Performance

Marin Actors Co. has scheduled an additional performance of its production of the farce, "Pool's Paradise," for 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

Revue Due April 9

The Tiburon Cove Players' production of "Chicken Little Was Right," an original revue which takes a satirical look at today's world, will open April 19 at the Main Street Theater in Tiburon. The show will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings through May 18. Curtain will be at 9 p.m.

Novato Boys Clubhouse Move Begun

The Novato Boys' Club Board last night made preliminary plans to use the $1,200 in its treasury to rent a site for a clubhouse, according to Edward McGuire, secretary.

The board members would then try to equip it with donated equipment such as athletic equipment, arts and crafts material and a small library, McGuire said.

The board does not have any specific location in mind at the present time, he said.

The club had invited 15 organizations to send representatives to last night's meeting in the conference room at Novato Savings and Loan. Only Roger Hillman, representing the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce and Det. Sgt. Otto Haiungs of the police department, attended, McGuire said.

They and the board members agreed on the need for a clubhouse and decided to try to get one started before asking for cash donations, McGuire said.

The time and date of the next board meeting has not been set, he said.

Barham Urging Retention Of Span Road Panel

Clay Barham, a candidate for the Republican nomination in the Seventh Assembly District, yesterday urged retention of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Barham, addressing a group of about 25 Marin Republican volunteer club members in his San Rafael office, criticized proposals by his opponent in the June primary election, Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael, to dissolve the district and replace it with either a San Francisco-Marin Transit District or a regional Golden Gate Authority.

Both proposals would throw the bridge district "into fiscal chaos and put its revenues up for grabs," said Barham. Bagley is "acting like a Paris revolutionary changing governments as fast as they do their underwear," Barham said.

Barham said he favored expansion of the bridge board's authority to all forms of transit.

MARIN'S AFLUTTER

Rare Butterflies' Invasion Reported

Thousands of painted lady butterflies fluttered into the county last evening before sundown — possibly intending to settle down and live in Marin.

The flame-colored butterflies with white wing spots are making their eighth major California migration since 1895, coming through the Bay Area for the first time.

"Thousands of the butterflies were flying into the Loch Lomond and Bayside Acres areas of San Rafael yesterday," according to David Cavagnero, education director for the Boyd Junior Museum.

"They are very shy at this stage of their lives, though," he said, adding that he had a difficult time trying to catch some of the little creatures.

The butterflies settled down in trees for the night, Cavagnero said, but he thinks they may be going to disperse and stay in Marin County, since he saw some in various areas this morning.

Clouds of the high-flying butterflies were probably taken for the familiar oak moths by many Marinites, Cavagnero said, as the painted ladies do not look colorful in flight but give a "rather gray appearance."

Unlike the oak moths, however, the butterflies do no damage, existing on the nectar of flowers. "During the migrant stage they probably eat very little," Cavagnero added.

The reason for the mass migration is a mystery to the experts, according to entomologists Edward Ross and Paul Arnaud of the California Academy of Science in San Francisco.

Dr. Ross credited the migration to something called "larva memory."

When the butterflies were caterpillars, Dr. Ross speculated, they may have been forced by a local food shortage to migrate. Now they may be responding to a similar instinct even though they need no food.

Dr. Ross also speculated that the butterflies came from the Monterey area and may settle in Marin or possibly be heading for the Carquinez Straits area.

Night Club Band Strike Averted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new contract has averted a musicians' strike against 18 San Francisco topless and other night spots.

The pact, disclosed today, provides a 12 per cent wage boost over three years for about 60 musicians, and calls for a five day work week, instead of six.

A strike had been called for March 11 and then delayed to permit continued negotiations, officials of Musicians Union Local 6 said.

Choreographer Is Selected For Play

Margot Jones, Marin dancer, has been named choreographer of this year's Mountain Play, "Alice Through the Looking Glass," which will be presented May 19 and 26 at the Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais.

Miss Jones has appeared in the Bay Area at the Hungry I, on the stage in "Blues for Mr. Charlie" and at the Festival of Performing Arts at Foothill College. When not performing, she teaches dancing to children at the Maringate Nursery School in Marin City.

Farm Bureau Delays Milk Pooling Stand

The Marin County Farm Bureau Monday postponed action on proposed milk pooling legislation pending further study of the latest draft on prodecures and terms under which the milk pooling will be established.

Mrs. Martha Busher, bureau secretary, reported.

Bureau directors will be contacted later in the month for their views on the draft prior to voting by local milk producers scheduled for the end of April, Mrs. Busher said.

The directors also named Boyd Stewart chairman of the standing committee on taxes and zoning. Others appointed to the committee include William Barboni, Albert Bianchi, D. McIsaac, D. Burbank, W. Lafranchi, R. Giacomini, E. Brown, R. Parks and H. Tomasini.

The meeting was adjourned to 10 a.m., May 13, in the farm bureau's Novato office.

Possible Theft Foiled By Tip

A tip from a nearby resident alerted San Rafael police last night to a possible theft at D&W Wreckers, 96 Hoag Street.

Patrolman James Craddock disturbed two men he said were working on a wrecked car. He caught one while Patrolman Charles Brobeck grabbed the other.

Booked in Marin County Jail on suspicion of petty theft and trespassing was Gary M. Schaffer, 18, of 40 Ridgewood Road, San Rafael. He was released on $420 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. today.

Arrested with him was a 17-year-old youth who was booked into juvenile hall.

Civil Air Patrol Honors To Cadets

Brice E. Bennett, 17, of 875 Sir Francis Drake Boulevaard, San Anselmo, and Mark Huston, 16, of 12 Maple Hill Drive, San Rafael, have been awarded certificates of proficiency by the cadet section of the Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the Air Force search and rescue section.

'Goldenaires' Is New Club's Name

"The Goldenaires" has been chosen for the name of the new club being formed by the Center Senior Advisory Board of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

The name, which was submitted by Mrs. Pearl Dutra of Mill Valley, was one of 110 names entered in a contest held by the board.

Mrs. Dutra will receive a year's free membership in the club for her winning name, according to Andrew J. Snyder, director of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

The Goldenaires club will be open to any Marin resident 50 years of age or older and will start May 1 at the Community Recreation Center, Second and Brooks Streets, San Rafael.

Students Pour Into Mexico

SAN YSIDRO (AP) — U.S. authorities at this border town crossing into Mexico say thousands of vacationing students are taking their Easter Week vacations in Mexico — many of them because of the availability of marijuana," one said.

San Diego police who staff the checkpoint at the San Ysidro crossing say they have noticed a steady stream of youths crossing into Tijuana the past few days.

Mexican authorities, however, are reportedly turning away persons who look like hippies. "They won't let the long-haired, bearded types in," said Officer Richard Fargel.

Injuries Minor In 101 Accident

A Santa Rosa man was injured Monday when his car swerved on northbound Highway 101, four miles north of Novato, hit the center divider and rolled over at 7:50 p.m., throwing him out, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Alex Urrutia, 30, told patrolmen he might have fallen asleep at the wheel.

He was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital for cuts and bruises.

39 Strep Cases Hit Marin In Last Week

Morals Offense Charges Reduced

John Uniack of 355 Canal Street, San Rafael, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court Monday to two misdemeanor charges of indecent exposure.

The district attorney originally charged him with felonious exposure, claiming he had a prior conviciton for the same offense. This was not true, the court was told yesterday.

The district attorney dismissed three other charges of indecent exposure in view of Uniack's guilty plea. Uniack is to return to court May 3 for sentencing.

Guilty Plea Entered On Drunken Driving

John F. Gillespie, 34, of 140 Piedmont Drive, Larkspur, was fined $345 and placed on six months of probation for the same offense Nov. 30 at Nevada and Bridgeway in Sausalito.

LSD Factory Trial Date Set

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three men charged with operating an LSD factory will go on trial June 17.

At the time of their arrests in Orinda, federal agents described it as the "biggest LSD case in history."

Officers said the confiscated LSD had a potential value of $10.8 million.

Jury Conviction In Burglary Case

A Marin Superior Court jury has convicted George D. Beauchamp, 23, of San Rafael of burgling the room of Hans Carl Jorgenson, manager of the San Rafael Wilkins Hotel, June 25.

Fatal Heart Attack After Tipping Police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bertha Ratcliff spotted youths robbing and beating a bus driver outside her home Monday. She telephoned police, who captured four teen-agers after warning shots were fired.

Inside her home, police found Mrs. Ratcliff dead by her telephone of an apparent heart attack. The receiver was still dangling from its cord.

Personnel Panel Session Advanced

The Marin County Personnel Commission will meet this month on April 17, instead of April 18, as scheduled.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the supervisors' chambers at Civic Center.

The date was advanced because commissioner Victor P. Reed is scheduled to appear before an Assembly committee in Sacramento to describe Marin's new employer-employee relations policy approved in January.

Voting Roundup Of Marin Cities

SAUSALITO

Incumbent Alexander R. Imlay, an attorney, led the field in Sausalito last night, and housewife Robin Sweeny and George C. Hoffman, planning commissioner, were also elected to the city council.

Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford) narrowly missed on her fourth try for election to the council and artist Serge Trubach, also a perennial candidate trailed behind Douglas P. Ferguson, who had announced withdrawal from the race.

The totals were: Imlay, 1125; Mrs. Sweeny, 970; Hoffman, 924; Mrs. Owen, 894; Ferguson, 352, and Trubach, 287.

City Treasurer Edwin S. Long, who was unopposed, received 1192 votes.

Fifty per cent, or 1,762 of the 3,523 voters in Sausalito turned out yesterday.

A $75,000 bond issue for water main replacement, approved by all civic groups and opposed by none, won handily with 1,500 yes votes to 175 opposed.

BELVEDERE

Eleven per cent, 150 of the 1,384 registered voters in Belvedere dutifully trudged to the polls yesterday to elect three unopposed incumbents to the city council.

Elected were Edwin J. Drechsel, 142 votes; Thomas S. Price, 142, and Merritt K. Ruddock, 132.

TIBURON

Attorney Denis T. Rice and former Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood were named last night to the Tiburon City Council as they topped the field of five candidates.

Losing candidates were Fred C. Hannahs, Fred R. Mantegani and Stephen H Nash.

MILL VALLEY

Mill Valley voters, who voted 54 per cent in favor of the resolution calling for orderly withdrawal of troops from Vietnam last night denied election to the city council to the two candidates who had supported the measure.

Top vote getter in the election was attorney Robert H. Andersen, who had called the city council's resolution on Vietnam "[illegible]mous." Andresen received 2,280 votes. Incumbent George E. Wickham was second with 2,169 votes, and third man elected was Jerome C. Hauke, civil engineer, with 1,628 votes.

Defeated were two members of the city's planning commission, Edward L. Farrell, 1,525 votes, and Robert E. Burton, 1,476, both of whom had backed the Vietnam resolution. Also defeated was housewife Gladys T. Bleyle, who received 995 votes.

Fifty-six per cent, or 3,449 of the 6,062 registered voters went to the polls.

The vote on the Vietnam resolution was 1,863, yes, to 1,433, no.

CORTE MADERA

Corte Madera voters returned the only incumbent running, Robert P. Simmons, to the city council yesterday and also elected Byron D. White, member of the city planning commission, who led the field.

White had 746 votes and Simmons, 581. Challenger Jack William Kelley, owner of a dry cleaning firm, trailed with 436 votes.

Synanon, which had become a campaign issue in Corte Madera when the Synanon Foundation announced plans to purchase the Uplands apartments on the east side of town, apparently did not figure prominently in the election.

Simmons had refused to take a position on the Synanon purchase saying it had not yet come before the council, while White and Kelley opposed Synanon coming to Corte Madera.

Also elected in Corte Madera were Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and Treasurer John R. Vance, both unopposed incumbents, with 911 and 905 votes, respectively.

The turnout in Corte Madera was 27 per cent with 1007 votes cast out of 3725 registered voters.

LARKSPUR

One of the incumbents on the Larkspur City Council was re-elected last night but the other trailed the field of five candidates.

Mayor Earl J. O'Grady was successful in his bid for re-election, while Henry Brocco was defeated.

Also elected were William G. Fleckles, an attorney, and Benton A. Sifford Jr., insurance research director and president of College Park Homeowners Association.

Totals were: Fleckles, 963; Sifford, 846; O'Grady, 821; Dolman, 697, and Brocco, 567.

Thirty-nine per cent, or 1,502 of the 3,837 registered voters in Larkspur turned out yesterday.

ROSS

Disc jockey Jack Carney was successful last night in his bid to join the Ross Town Council as he joined two incumbents elected by what was reportedly a record turnout of voters in the town.

Carney was third in the field of seven candidates with 501 votes. Leader was incumbent Natalie G. Lewis, who received 581 votes, and Dr. W. James Dawson, another incumbent, was elected with 520 votes.

Failing in his bid was incumbent Thomas W. Jones ,who trailed Carney with 443 votes.

Other unsuccessful candidates were Henry A. Haberman, retired garage owner, 342 votes; Jefferson J. Graves Jr., banker, 202 votes, and Robert M. Brown, tailor, 119 votes.

Town Clerk Virginia Stott received 688 votes, and Treasurer Else M. Innes, 676 votes. Both incumbents were unopposed.

Counting of the ballots in Ross, which only had one polling place, took the longest time of any of the 10 cities in the county having elections yesterday. It was almost midnight before a final tally was reached.

Sixty-eight per cent, of 957 of the 1,387 Ross voters cast ballots yesterday.

SAN ANSELMO

A slate of two challengers was successful in its bid for San Anselmo City Council last night, as Mayor Arthur W. Smith, "dean of Marin councilmen" was defeated after 25 years on the council.

Elected were Kenneth L. Anderson, insurance underwriter, who received 1,556 votes, and James F. Reed, businessman, with 1,552 votes.

Also in the race were Grant J. Halsing, co-founder of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin, who received 210 votes, and former Councilman Cecil J. Allen, 103 votes.

San Anselmo voters also turned out of office the city treasurer, George W. Prydz, electing Hans E. Fishel, a public accountant, in his place. The vote was 1,372 to 1,105.

The proposition to lower pay for city councilmen from $150 a month ot $25 a meeting with a maximum of $75 a month was overwhelmingly approved by voters, 2,052 to 579.

Forty-three per cent, or 2,620 of the 6,050 registered voters went to the polls.

Top vote getter in San Anselmo was City Clerk Anita Gannon, unopposed for re-election, who received 2,223 votes.

FAIRFAX

Fairfax voters elected Francis J. O'Connell, a route supervisor for Foremost Foods, and former Councilman Cornelis Van Vliet, owner of a printing business, to the city council last night.

O'Connell topped the balloting with 934, and Van Vliet had 649 votes. Stanley W. Little, who missed being elected to the council by one vote in 1966, failed to make it again last night. He had 541 votes, and Jack Haley Jr. was behind him with 536 votes.

Councilman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who is running for supervisor, withdrew from the election too late to get his name off the ballot and drew 335 votes. Former Councilman Frank L. Lawrence Jr. also had withdrawn from the election but received 53 votes.

Mayor George A. Pagni, who did not seek re-election to the council but challenged City Treasurer Dorothy A. McGlothin, for her job, failed in this bid. The vote was 1142 for Mrs. McGlothin to 392 for Pagni.

Voters also rejected measures to make two city posts appointive instead of elective: city clerk by 1,195-364, treasurer by 1,194-354.

Fifty-two per cent, or 1,615 of the city's 3,098 registered voters went to the polls yesterday.

NOVATO

Novato voters yesterday returned to office the two incumbents running for the city council. Mayor J. Wayne Womack and Douglas M. Merrill. Also elected was Joseph D. Gargiulo, school administrator, who barely nosed out former city planner Robert B. Lagle for the third seat.

Mayor Womack led the field of nine candidates with 1,378 votes, followed by Merrill, 1,362. Lagle, who had taken an early lead, was fourth with 1,013 behind Gargiulo, who received 1,047 votes.

Other candidates were: Patricia Beyer, 995; Wilfred H. Lieb, 943; Wayne C. Hathaway, 811; Donald R. Telford, 760, and Joseph Frank Bonomolo, 621.

A total of 3,120 voters cast ballots out of 7,638 registered, a turnout of 41 per cent.

AWAITING RESULTS—Spectators roamed or rested in Mill Valley's city hall as precinct results were chalked up. Biggest drawing card was the city's controversial resolution on the Vietnam War, which voters passed, causing Mill Valley to tie with Beverly Hills as the first in the nation to act on the war. Storer-Baar Clash On Spending, Highway Highlights Coast Panel

By WAT TAKESHITA

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer and challenger Louis H. (Bud) Baar split sharply last night over Shoreline Highway and economy in government at a candidates night in West Marin.

Storer, Baar, Michael D. Healy of San Geronimo, and Richard I. Lynch of Corte Madera spoke at a dinner meeting of the West Marin Chamber of Commerce at Clay's Farm House Restaurant in Olema. All four are running for the post now held by Storer.

Baar, San Rafael city councilman and real estate broker, called for a four-lane "scenic highway" along the ridges for safe and rapid access to West Marin.

Storer, incumbent supervisor and attorney, said he and other members of the board of supervisors are officially on record as improving the present Shoreline route but against a four-lane highway. He said other modes of transportation like hovercraft should be used to take cars off the highways.

OPPOSES FREEWAYS

Healy, school psychologist, declared flatly: "I don't believe in freeways." He said he agrees with Storer that other methods of transportation should be explored.

Lynch, a garage owner, said he liked Baar's idea of a four-lane highway.

On economy in government, Storer declared the supervisors, at his suggestion, imposed a tax freeze for the coming fiscal year at $2.30. This, said Storer is having an immediate effect in forcing the county to cut costs.

CITY HALL COSTS

Storer declared that the square-foot cost of San Rafael's new city hall is almost double that of the county Civic Center.

The county paid $276,360 for 60 acres whereas San Rafael paid $526,881 for 2.3 acres, said Storer. He said the cost per square foot of usable building space comes to $31 for the Civic Center as compared with $63 for San Rafael City Hall.

"Construction cost of the buildings only is $22.67 for the Civic Center and $38.61 for the San Rafael City Hall," said Storer. "Furthermore, San Rafael recently expended $4,640 on a luxurious carpet and furniture outside the city council chambers. Is this the kind of economy you want brought into the county?"

Baar pointed out the county property was pastureland and naturally less expensive than the city hall land. He accused the county of "flagrant use of money."

PAY RAISE CITED

"One week after freezing the tax rate," said Baar, "Mr. Storer, along with other supervisors, was requesting the court reporters' pay be raised from $12,000 to $14,000."

Accurate reporting of court testimony is important, replied Storer. He said all evidence showed the pay raise was needed to attract efficient court reporters. "I'd rather see money spent on what the people need than on fancy carpets and furniture."

Here are some of the other statements made by the candidates:

LYNCH: He is no professional politician and wants to represent the voice of the ordinary citizen. He wants to eliminate the toll gates on the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco and collect 50 cents on the return trip. He would "permit no dump in Corte Madera" and will fight for the unemployed and the unfortunates.

HEALY: Taxes will continue to go up as long as government is involved in the welfare of people. "I will never vote down a tax increase if I feel that the increase is needed for the welfare of the people. If the budget is to be cut I'm going to start cutting at the top — the higher administrative offices."

Healy said an attorney ought to be hired in the attorney general's office to enforce the Rumford Housing law. Supervisors should be limited to two terms. If a supervisor wants to run for higher office, he should resign first. Every resident in Marin City should be given a chance to move out, and if he cannot afford it, the county should subsidize him. Supervisors should speak out on issues like the Vietnam war. Healy said the country should meet its responsibility to help the needy instead of spending billions in the war.

BAAR: He has been on the San Rafael City Council for 11 years, and during that time, the city tax rate dropped from $1.25 to 90 cents. Meanwhile, the city added the new city civic center, built four fire stations, built five new parking lots, improved street lighting and drainage, and reconstructed 70 per cent of the streets. In the last three years, the city reduced its budget by about 27 per cent, whereas the county budget rose by better than 11 per cent.

The county administrator's department budget went up 123 per cent in three years. About 45 per cent of the county planning department budget goes to "advance planning," which Baar described as "daydreaming with what the future is going to bring."

Baar said Storer made many promises when he ran four years ago. "Eleven months after he got into office, he runs for another office (Congress)."

Baar charged Storer with "shirking his duty" in not attending all of the hearings on general relief cases.

STORER: Route 17 into West Marin is at least seven years away. The federal government should aid in providing proper access to West Marin because of the Point Reyes National Seashore. The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District should be taken over by Marin and San Francisco and the revenues used for mass transit between the two counties.

A four-lane highway from San Francisco to West Marin would cost $70 million, and there is no source for that kind of money in the foreseeable future.

June Voter Signup Ends Tomorrow

Persons who failed to vote in 1966, who have moved, who wish to change party, or who have reached 21 must register to be eligible.

Registrations may be made at stores, firehouses, city halls and at the offices of the county clerk in the Civic Center and at the courthouse in San Rafael. Many of the locations will be open until 9 p.m. today and tomorrow.

The League of Women Voters will conduct registration from 7 to 9:30 p.m. today at the Emporium in the Northgate Shopping Center.

URC Chapter Is Backing Barham

The Marin chapter of the ultra-conservative United Republicans of California has endorsed the candidacy of Clay Barham for the Republican nomination in the Seventh Assembly District.

The endorsement came at a membership convention Monday in San Rafael. The chapter says it has about 120 members.

Plywood Stolen

The theft of 50 sheets of plywood, valued at $535, from the San Marin High School site was reported to Novato police yesterday by Bernard R. Albers, foreman for M. Royce Hall Co., the general contractor. The theft occurred between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Monday, according to police.

Larkspur Chamber Views Holiday Plans

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce board yesterday discussed plans for the scheduled Fourth of July celebration parade to be held jointly with the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, but took no further action.

County Governments Abolishment Argued

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The nine county governments in the Bay Area should be dissolved and replaced with a regional government, a legislative committee studying the feasibility of regional government was told here yesterday.

"County government has become almost an anachronism," said Louis Butler, president of the Planning and Conservation League. At the very least, county planning commissions "probably should go in their entirety," he told the Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization.

THREE DAYS

The committee yesterday opened three days of hearings in the State Building.

Butler said he spoke "for a great many citizens who have no vested interest in county government."

However, the chairman of the committee, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, was quick to say that "it simply is not realistic to consider" dismantling county government.

Regional government in the Bay Area, Butler added, should be operated by directors who are elected directly by the voters.

A contrary view was given by Robert G. Miller, past president of the Association of Bay Area Governments and vice mayor of San Jose. The association favors appointment of the governing board by existing city and county officials, he noted, "so that regional government then would not be likely to become something that would overcome local government.

MORE SUPPORT

Knox commented that ABAG's proposal "does not meet with unanimity, but I don't know of any one that does."

In the past, Knox has indicated he would prefer that the governing body be composed both of appointed and directly elected officals.

Also supporting direct election was E. Jack Schoop of San Rafael, chairman of the regional planning committee of the California chapter of the American Institute of Planners. Directly elected candidates could "stand for election on purely regional issues," he said.

"SMALL AS POSSIBLE"

Schoop also urged that the number of employees of any regional agency be "as small as possible to make the proposal of a new level of government more politically acceptable — and to keep costs down."

A regional government also must provide some way to ensure representation for minority groups, said Dr. Jack Dyckman, a city and regional planning professor at the University of California.

"San Francisco cannot act as though it were the dominant local government in the region," testified T. J. Kent Jr., a colleague of Dyckman. "If its leaders were to act in this way today," Kent said of San Francisco, "they could wreck the work of the past 20 years which has enabled San Francisco to develop a constructive role in Bay Area metropolitan affairs." He did not mention San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's proposed commuter tax.

REGIONAL PARK

James E. Warren, deputy director of the state Parks and Recreation Department, argued for the creation of a regional park and recreation authority to meet the critical need for recreational facilities. By 1980, he estimated, the Bay Area will need an additional 10,100 picnic units, 2,300 camp units and 650 miles of trails — all within a one-hour drive of population centers.

"It is rather shocking in our affluent society that open space is slipping through our hands, said Irwin Luckma, director of the East Bay Regional Park District.

A regional park and recreation authority, he said, "would provide a stable financial base not subject to the vagaries of annual budgeting."

Knox's committee is to report to the 1969 Legislature on whether to set up some form of Regional government in the Bay Area, and is to propose the form such a government would take.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Requirements Governing Filing '68 Estimated Tax

Wikel

You are required to file a federal declaration of estimated tax for 1968 if you can reasonably expect gross income over:

1. $10,000 for a married couple filing a joint return, or for a head of household, or a widow or widower entitled to the special tax rates;

2. $5,000 for other single individuals;

3. $5,000 for a married individual not entitled to file a joint declaration;

4. $5,000 for a married individual entitled to file a joint declaration, and the combined income of both husband and wife can reasonably be expected to exceed $10,000;

OR if you can reasonably expect to receive more than $200 from sources other than wages subject to withholding;

AND the total tax due on the estimate is $40 or more.

If you are self-employed, you must add the self-employment tax of 6.4 per cent of the first $6,600 of self-employment income subject to the tax. In most cases, this will be $422.40.

If you are subject to withholding you should deduct your estimated withholding from your estimated tax.

Your estimated tax paid must be at least 80 per cent of the total tax due, otherwise you may be subject to penalties for under-estimating.

One easy way to avoid penalties is to pay an estimated tax equal to at least your 1967 income tax, of you do this, the 80 per cent rule does not apply to you.

If you are an employee, the law provides that you can agree with you employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paycheck so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of of the year. There is a special place (line 7) on the W-4, Employee's Withholding Sxemption Certificate for this.

In other words, if the estimated tax payments amount to less than $40 ($10 per quarter), you are not required to file an estimate.

Any tax paid on a separate declaration may be used to pay the tax due on a joint final return; likewise, any tax paid on a joint declaration may be used to pay the tax due on separate final returns.

Your estimate and one quarter of the tax is due on April 15, 1968. Payments are due on June 17 and Sept. 16, 1968, and Jan. 15, 1969.

Stocks Soar To Another Record Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock Market volume soared to another all-time record today topping the April 3 peak of 19.29 million shares 16 minutes before the close of trading.

Du Pont, up 6⅜s at 166E; Xerox, up 3¼ a5 271; U.S. Gypsum, up 4⅜s at 79E; General Motors, off 1⅛s at 82⅜s; Ford, up 1 at 57; Westinghouse Air Brake, up 2 at 49; Polaroid, up 2¼ at 113¼; and Occidental Petroleum off ⅜s at 36¼.

Volume for the first four hours alone was 16.6 million shares—a figure which several days ago would have topped the old all-time record of 16.4 million for a full day set on "Black Tuesday," 1929. On April 3 the latest peak of 19.29 million shares was set.

The ticker tape lagged as much as 41 minutes behind transactions around midday but was catching up rapidly as investors grew more cautious on the Rusk statement.

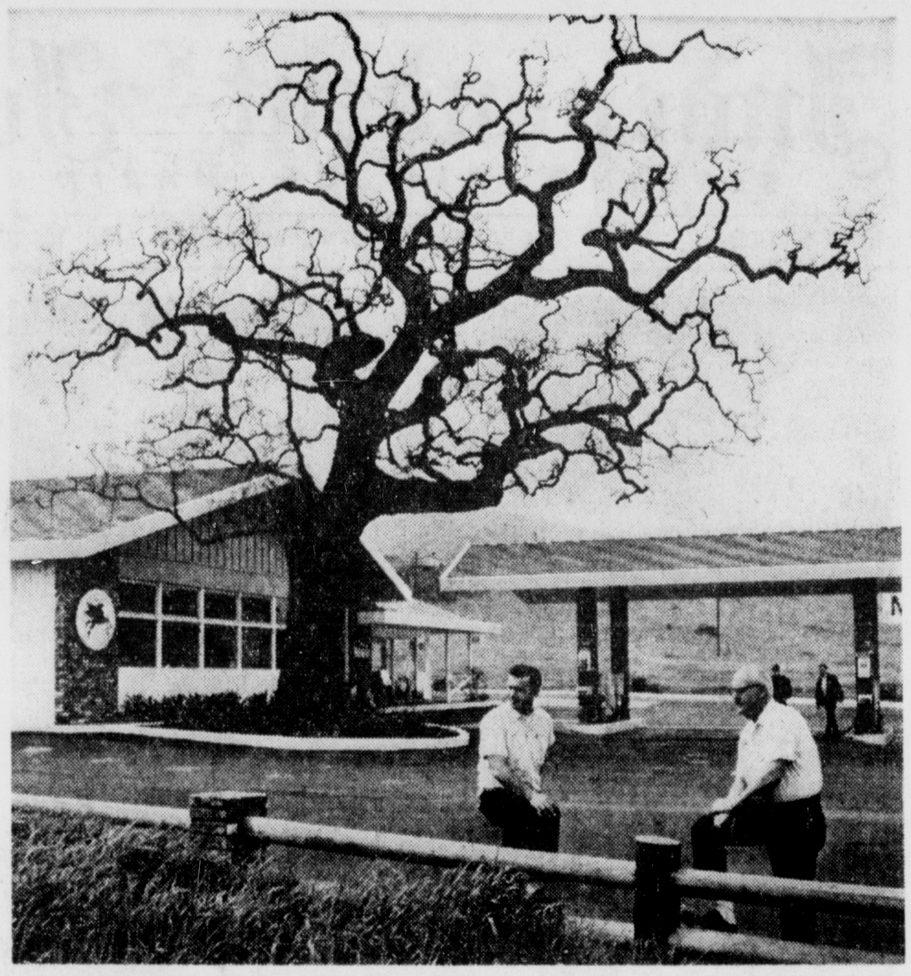
Big gains remained as the momentum of the "Peace rally" swept investors, big and small, into a churning but fundamentally optimistic market.

Fractional gains peppered the list of steels, electronics, building materials and many other groups. Even the insurance stocks, hit hard by damage claims because of the racial rioting, were mostly higher.

Prices climbed on the American Stock Exchange.

Truck Leasing

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The truck leasing field now represents a billion-dollar industry, according to W. J. O'Neill, president of Leaseway Transportation Corp. Truck leasing in the United States in the last five years has more than doubled in both units and revenues, with an estimated 300,000 vehicles and revenues approaching $1 billion in 1967, says O'Neill.



OAK DOMINATES STATION

Rather than destroy a fine white oak tree, believed to be over 100 years old, Mobil Oil Corp. revised its new service station plans at 975 Diablo Avenue, Novato, and located its lubrication room at the rear of the building instead of at the front. Holes have also been drilled in the station's pavement to provide for air and water to the tree's roots. Dealer partners Jack Dalpino (left) and Gregory McConnell operate the new facility.

Police Seeking $13.5 Million From Rodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three police officers and a police organization are suing Jimmie Rodgers and his attorney for nearly $13.5 million, saying they slandered them in their accounts of how the singer suffered his near-fatal head injuries last December.

Rodgers, 34, and attorney Daniel Lipsig have contended the singer was manhandled by police after they stopped his car early the morning of Dec. 1.

The suit was filed yesterday by officers Michael Duffy, Ronald Wagner and Raymond Whisman and by the Los Angeles Fire and Police Protective League.

Each officer seeks $1 million in punitive damages and $150,000 general damages for libel and slander. The league, on behalf of the Los Angeles Police force asks $5 million in general and $5 million in punitive damages.

The superior court suit charges statements made by Rodgers and Lipsig exposed the individual officers and the entire department to "hatred, scorn, contempt, ridicule and obloquy."

It says both Rodgers and Lipsiz made statements to newsmen about "police brutality," "unprovoked assault and battery" and "karate chops" that they knew to be false.

The three officers were suspended 15 days for not following proper police procedures in the incident. A district attorney's official report said Rodgers' skull fracture was sustained in one or two falls, but not because of an assault by police. But it chided the three officers for not being "completely truthful" in their accounts of the incident.

Rodgers has filed a $11-million claim against the city, charging police assault and battery.

Execution Threat Voiced By Cong

TOKYO (UPI)—Viet Cong leaders today accused the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments of executing war prisoners and threatened retaliation against allied prisoners in Communist hands.

The National Liberation Front (NLF), political arm of the Viet Cong, said in a statement broadcast by Hanoi Radio that two NLF leaders were captured and exzcuted by the South Vietnamese government during the Communist city offensive earlier this year.

One was a woman member of the NLF Central Committee, the broadcast said, and the other was the vice president of a Viet Cong trade union federation in the Saigon area.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Employee Suffers Hoarsness, Loses Job As Result Of Fear

VAN DELLEN

Hoarseness often is due to laryngitis from a cold or from yelling or talking too much. When it lasts longer than three weeks, thorough examination is needed to determine whether tumor exists.

Nervous disorders also cause laryngitis, even to the point of not being able to speak at all.

For many years years Jim had been employed by an aggressive and domineering man. His boss overloaded him with work and never recognized his efforts by word of mouth or through remuneration.

A severe cold that settled in the larynx left him temporarily hoarse. While convalescing, he worried constantly about losing his job. He was almost 50, had a family to support, and was slightly in debt. Jim's fears mounted that he was going to be fired unless he recovered, and soon.

TWO DAYS before he was to return to work, the hoarseness recurred. Several days later, the mailman delivered his severance pay.

This episode was the beginning of one consultation after another with throat specialists. Careful examination of the vocal cords revealed no abnormality. Jim finally consented to see a psychiatrist who determined that the trouble was psychosomatic.

The original cold was the catalyst that set off the emotional illness, amplifying Jim's intense anxiety about job and employer. Losing his voice was an unconscious face-saving device; it offered an excellent excuse for staying away from the plant.

THE VOCAL CORDS and the emotions are closely related. The tone and pitch vary, depending upon whether the speaker is calm, irritated, sad, excited, or bored. The voice also betrays the person who is elated, fearful, hostile, or smitten.

Some of us are more vulnerable than others to these differences in mood. In this respect, it is not always what is said, but how it is said.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DIATHERMY FOR SCIATICA

C. W. writes: My husband rented a diathermy machine with which he plans to treat his sciatica. How long must he use the device before he is cured?

REPLY

Indefinitely. In 90 per cent of all victims of sciatica, pain stems from a ruptured or slipped disk in the back. Heat may bring relief but it will not cure this defect.

ABDOMINAL ADHESIONS

I. W. D. writes: Why would a person who never experienced a gallbladder attack have adhesions of the organ? These defects were found during abdominal surgery for another condition.

REPLY

Inflammation of a neighboring organ might be responsible for adhesions. You neglected to mention the condition for which an operation was needed.

WHITE PATCHES

S. B. writes: I was told I have leukoplakia of the tongue. Is this a serious condition?

REPLY

Yes, in that these white patches may become malignant. Tobacco, rough teeth, and hot foods are the most common causes. Avoid these irritants and have the lesion examined periodically by your physician. He may recommend removal.

CIGAR, CIGARET, OR PIPE?

P. G. writes: Which of the following constitute the greatest hazard to health — cigars, cigarets, or pipes?

REPLY

Cigarets, especially to the person who smokes two or more packs a day.

Seven Black Panthers Charged In Shootout

OAKLAND (AP)—Charges of assault to commit murder have been filed against seven members of the Black Panthers, a militant Negro group, in connection with a shootout involving police Saturday night.

An eighth member is being held in juvenile hall.

Bail for Panther Minister of Information Eldridge Cleaver of Oakland was set Tuesday at $63.000. He is being held at the Vacaville prison hospital on grounds of parole violation. His parole from a 1958 assault sentence in Los Angeles has been suspended.

Bail for the other six persons charged was set at $40,000 each.

They are Donnell Lankford, 18, San Francisco; Charles Bursey, 21, Berkeley; Terry Cotton, David Hilliard, 25, and Wendell Wade, 23, all of Oakland, and Warren Wells, 21, Oakland.

Cleaver, 33, author of a new book, "Soul on Ice," and Wells were wounded along with two Oakland policemen in a gunfight Saturday night in which Panther Bobby James Hutton, 17, was killed.

Panthers and the Peace and Freedom party are urging "all Californians, black and white" to attend Hutton's funeral Friday.

O'Brien Expected To Quit Cabinet Post For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, top political savant in the Johnson administration, is considering leaving the cabinet —perhaps to join Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's presidential campaign staff.

O'Brien's chief aide, Ira Kaplenstein, acknowledge yesterday that, "like a lot of people, he (O'Brien) has been mulling over his own future."

Until President Johnson announced his decision not to seek re-election March 31, O'Brien made a point to spread the word that he was sticking with the president so long as his Vietnam policy did not call for total military victory.

O'Brien's decision at that time surprised many who thought loyalty to the Kennedy clan would dictate throwing his lot in with Robert Kennedy's presidential bid. O'Brien was a major figure in John F. Kennedy senatorial campaigns in 1952 and 1958 and his presidential campaign in 1960.

Kapenstein said O'Brien was considering an offer "in the private sector" as well as possibilities in government and politics.

But rumors abounded that he would throw in with Kennedy, and CBS News said he would resign tomorrow to join the campaign.

House Retains Saturday Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has voted to save money in running the Post Office in the new fiscal year, but refused to eliminate Saturday mail deliveries.

The House allotted the Post Office and Treasury departments, and several smaller agencies, an $8.1 billion appropriation for fiscal 1969, but said they could only spend $7.4 billion of it.

Before voting 34 to 10 yesterday to send the first fiscal 1969 money bill of the year to the Senate, the House voted, 250 to 102, to reject a move by Rep. Howard Robison, R-N. Y., to save $121 million by cutting out Saturday residential and parcel post deliveries.

Worker Is Crushed Under Big Machine

SONORA (UPI) — Timothy F. Kelly, 30, Concord, was killed yesterday when he fell under a 20-ton earth-moving machine at a construction project near Moccasin power house south of here. Coroner's deputies said he tried to board the vehicle when it started rolling down a hill but slipped off and was crushed.

TELEVISION REVIEW

CBS Slates Series On Black America

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Even as Martin Luther King's funeral was covered extensively yesterday on television, CBS-TV announced a prime time series aimed at creating better understanding in black-white relations.

The network said that starting July 2, it will present a seven-program series entitled "Of Black America," tracing the "history of the Negro and relating it to his place in the United States today."

There will be six one-hour programs and one half-hour broadcast. The air dates, in addition to July 2, are July 9, 16, 23 and 30, and Aug. 13 and 20.

Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, said that with television's great reach, the network hopes the series "can make some contribution in starting to fill the gaps both for Negroes and for whites."

It is good that CBS-TV has the series in proper perspective, for it is indeed hardly more than a start, although a significant one. And the job that television can do in helping provide better community relations is important to every American, regardless of race.

Television, the most cautious of all the media because of its basic function—to sell products—is light years behind in the job it is uniquely equipped to lead: bringing immediate, visual, face-to-face and dramatic understanding of the race problem, at least trying to.

According to Salant, "Of Black America" will be presented in a magazine format. Often, more than one subject will be covered in each broadcast. Adds the network:

"The major themes of the series will be history—how the place of the Negro in America is related to his past, and the evolvement of black American identity—who he is and, through him, how the white man is learning about himself."

There will e a program profiling black America today, based on a survey of Negro attitudes. Other planned programs include:

"A worldwide interconnecting conference of Negro Americans and African leaders; an examination of African civilization through the eyes of a Negro American; an examination of the Negro's involvement in militancy, passivity and resignation, and the Negro's contributions to American history, business, the professions, the arts and music, sports and politics."

Travel Cancellation Brings Teen Rioting

COPENHAGEN (AP) — More than 3,000 teen-age students rampaged through the Danish capital today, lighting fires and breaking windows in protest against the new government's cancellation of free vacation rail travel inside Denmark which the previous Socialist government had allowed students.

The non-Socialist coalition which came to power in January canceled the free travel as an economy measure.

Delayed Oscar Presentation Set Tonight

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—Will it be Faye Dunaway or Dame Edith Adams; Rod Steiger or Paul Newman tonight in filmland's delayed Oscar competition?

They are the favorites for the major acting awards.

Modish Miss Dunaway has set a new style of dress and appearance with her portrayal of Bonnie Parker. Dame Edith, 80, moved audiences to tears in "The Whisperers."

Just as close is the race for best actor. Steiger in the role of a bigoted cop, Newman as a convict and Warren Beatty as Clyde Barrow have the inside tracks.

It is generally conceded "Bonnie and Clyde," "In the Heat of the Night" and "The Graduate" are leading contenders for top film of 1967.

Rounding out the nominees for best actor are Dustin Hoffman (The Graduate), and Spencer Tracy (Guess Who's Coming To Dinner), who could be the first actor to win an Oscar posthumously.

Others in the running for best actress are Anne Bancroft (The Graduate), Katharine Hepburn (Guess Who's Coming To Dinner) and Audrey Hepburn (Wait Until Dark).

ABC-TV will broadcast the presentations nationally, beginning at 7 p.m. (See TV log for listing)

All of the nominees, excepting Paul Newman and Katherine Hepburn will be in Civic Auditorium when the two-hour show is aired.

Tension In Air As Baseball Season Gets Under Way

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The 1968 major league baseball season finally opened today after an unprecedented two-day delay, but it did not begin with the usual aplomb.

An outbreak of violence in several major league cities, the aftermath of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has created a feeling of apprehension among baseball officials whose teams are scheduled to open in those cities and a state of uneasiness exits practically everywhere.

All 20 teams are scheduled to play, but in the riot-torn cities of Washington, Chicago, Baltimore and Cincinnati there is a distinct possibility that further postponements may occur.

In Chicago, where 11 persons were killed and over 300 injured in riots, the White Sox were scheduled to play the Cleveland Indians. Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, is in the heart of the Negro district on the city's South Side.

FORESEES NO PROBLEMS

"We've had no outbreaks near us," said Ed Short, general manager of the White Sox, "and we anticipate no problems. We're going ahead with plans to play."

Short would not speculate on attendance at the opener, however. The White Sox plan to honor tickets purchased for yesterday's opener, with persons who bought tickets for today's game getting refunds.

Washington still has 13,000 federal troops and National Guardsmen in the city and has been under a strict 5:30 p.m. EST curfew for the past six days. Eight persons have been killed in riots, but the Senators planned to go ahead with their opener against the Minnesota Twins.

All 45,016 seats for the opener have been sold out for weeks, but the tense racial situation was expected to hold down the crowd. Just who would throw out the first ball for the traditional "Presidential Opener" was unknown as both President Johnson and Vice-President Humphrey were not expected to attend.

Baltimore has 11,000 troops patrolling the streets following the death of five persons, but the trouble is said to be nearly over. The Orioles were scheduled to entertain the Oakland Athletics.

PLAY DESPITE RIOTS

In Cincinnati, 1,300 National Guard troops were called out to quell rioting that resulted in the death of two persons. The Reds were scheduled to open there against the Chicago Cubs.

The traditional openers at Washington and Cincinnati were originally scheduled for Monday but were postponed out of respect for Dr. King until Wednesday as was Monday night's scheduled game between the Houston Astros and Pittsburgh Pirates at the Astrodome.

In other National League openers today, New York was at San Francisco for a day game while Philadelphia visited Los Angeles and world champion St. Louis greeted Atlanta at night.

PICKING FOR A PUCK

JIM GILMARTIN

It Will Be Giants Vs. Tigers In World Series

OLD FEARLESS — Since my return from the Giants' training camp in Phoenix I've been deluged by requests for my opinion on the 1968 major league pennant races. (Well, would you believe my four kids casually popped the question to me?)

Picking baseball races isn't the easiest chore, as my .100 (one out of ten) prognosticating batting average indicates during the past decade. My only bullseye came in 1962 when the Giants won the pennant.

Well, Ive been mulling over the problem for the past few weeks and have come to the conclusion the Giants will be playing the Detroit Tigers in the World Series next October.

My National League choice may surprise because in a nationwide poll of sports writers the Giants were tabbed no better than fourth behind World Champion St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. However, the Giants are rated co-favorites by Nevada bookmakers and I feel pretty safe agreeing with men who bet money.

Here Are The Reasons

Without going into long-winded song and dance, I base my N.L. prediction on: The Giants have the best pitching staff in baseball, the acquisition of Ron Hunt plugs their greatest weakness at second base, they have power, adequate defense and a good bench. Also, something I observed in Phoenix, this team appears confident without being cocky and there appears to be harmony where once there might have been dissension.

Okay, now, by popular demand (Hi, kids!) here goes nothing:

NATIONAL LEAGUE: 1—San Francisco; 2—St. Louis; 3—Pittsburgh; 4—Cincinnati; 5—Los Angeles; 6—Chicago; 7—Atlanta; 8—Philadelphia; 9—Houston; 10—New York.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: 1—Detroit; 2—Chicago; 3—Minnesota; 4—Baltimore; 5—Boston; 6—California; 7—New York; 8—Cleveland; 9—Oakland; 10—Washington.

In Spite Of Those Uniforms

Notice I picked a one-notch improvement for Oakland's Athletics after their 10th place finish in 1967. I think the new home and excitable East Bay fans may inspire the A's to the heady height of ninth place. I think they have a fine young up-and-coming club in spite of their controversial owner and Gawd-awful softballish uniforms and white kangaroo shoes.

LEAVE THE DRIVING, ETC. — Marin County fans who detest the drive to Candlestick Park are reminded that Western Greyhound Lines again is providing special direct, round-trip service to Giant games on weekends and holidays.

The service will include Fairfax, San Anselmo, San Rafael and Marin City, starting this weekend.

Greyhound also is serving fans by arranging for tickets to all Giant games at regular box office prices. Check your local Greyhound office for further details.

Warriors Get Back To Action

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers and the San Francisco Warriors meet tonight in the second game of the National Basketball Association Western Division final playoffs.

The Lakers walloped the Warriors 133-105 Friday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

The second contest was set for Sunday night but was postponed in deference to the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Veterans Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, who led the Lakers past the Chicago Bulls in five games in the division semifinals, combined for 56 points against San Francisco Friday night.

While Los Angeles trimmed the Bulls, San Francisco beat division winner St. Louis in six contests in the other division semifinal series.

The third Los Angeles-San Francisco game will be played tomorrow night at the Cow Palace in San Francisco and the fourth contest is set for Saturday night at the Oakland Arena.

College Of Marin Baseball Team Loses In Finals

It was fun while it lasted.

The College of Marin baseballers came out of the two-day Golden Valley Conference tournament at Marysville with a 3-1 record, losing in the finals to Sierra after three straight wins.

The Tars opened with a 13-10 free-for-all win over Siskiyous, a victory highlighted by 16 hits for the Tars, including inside the park homers by Bill Ingram and Jay Capell.

The Tars then came back to whip Yuba, 4-1, on Ed Beckley's two-hitter. Tuesday, the Tars took Shasta, 4-2, with Beckley winning his second game with four and two thirds inning of relief hurling.

The trail ran out against Sierra and resulted in a 12-3 loss, after the Tars had grabbed a 3-1 lead in the first three innings. Three hurlers tried in vain to stop the Wolverines.

DALE MORGAN
Shoots in 90s

Handicap Can't Stop This Golfer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Few golfers have a bigger handicap than Dale Morgan, 32, a San Francisco bar owner.

He has only one leg but does not use crutches or an artificial limb on the fairways.

"I tried playing golf with my artificial leg," said Morgan, "but I was shooting in the 100's.

"When I play without any aid, just balancing myself before the shot, I can get in the low 90's."

Morgan's best score was an 83. He shot 30 twice for nine holes.

"I probably never will get in the 70's," he said yesterday "but if my playing golf on one leg can inspire some other younger amputee to keep active in sports I know I will be doing something for somebody else."

"It was my first and last hunting trip," he said.

Morgan rides a cart from shot to shot but then hops to the ball, even putting while standing on his good leg.

GOLF'S BIG TWO

Nicklaus, Palmer Among Masters Top Favorites

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A somber, restrained air surrounds the opening of the 32nd Masters Golf Tournament tomorrow, with Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, as usual, ranking favorites.

"I just can't putt," said Brewer, who hasn't won since taking the 1967 title. "The rest of my game is good enough, I suppose, but I just can't sink a putt. I can't seem to get my mind on it."

COMPLAINTS

Palmer and Nicklaus had their chronic complaints, Palmer said he couldn't putt. Nicklaus said he couldn't drive.

"I had rounds of 66 and 67 on the last day at Greensboro," Palmer said, "and I didn't snk a putt all day. The rest of it is good. If I could putt I'd be in good shape."

"I'm having trouble with my driver," said Nicklaus, the game's biggest hitter. "I'm always having trouble with my driver."

Despite their troubles, they've won seven of the last 10 Masters, and easily rank as the men to beat in the relatively small field of 76 of the world's best.

But even their magic presence on the lushly green Augusta National Course yesterday — both were late arrivals failed to generate the excitement usually connected with this, the first of the world's four major tournaments.

QUIET CROWD

The crowds for the practice rounds were small and subdued. Palmer, amazingly, walked through a crowd unnoticed when he first reached the course.

He declined a practice round, and contended himself with some work off the tee while his army of followers, usually a stampeding, howling mob, watched in quiet decorum.

The practice was interrupted by a driving rainstorm that cleared the course of spectators and sent players scurrying to the clubhouse to watch the television account of the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King in Atlanta.

Both Palmer and Nicklaus admittedly are pointing for this Masters. Each feels he needs it.

Nicklaus, the 210-pound Ohio strongboy who has won all the world's major titles, practically owned the Masters crown until he fell apart last year and failed to make the cut. He had won three of the four previous Masters and set the scoring record.

THE BIG ONE

"The season starts for me when I tee up Thursday," Big Jack said. "I'm always pointing for this one. Everything I do up to this point is preparation for the Masters."

"I've won my share of tournaments," said the muscular millionaire, "But I haven't won one of the big ones—the Masters, British or U.S. Opens or the PGA — since the 1964 Masters. "That's four years. I'm due."

Among the other favorites are Billy Casper, two-time U.S. Open champion and winner of last week's rain-delayed Greensboro Open; flashy Doug Sanders, and England's Tony Jacklin, a 23-year-old who won the Jacksonville Open.

Other top foreign threats are British Open champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, always-dangerous Gary Player of South Africa, and George Knudson of Canada, winner of two winter tournaments.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS. The Saturday telecast will start at 12:30 p.m., Pacific time. Sunday's round will be shown 1-2:30 p.m., Pst.

Globetrotter Owners Interested In Seals

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — One of the Harlem Globetrotters' new owners said today he and his associates might be interested in the Oakland Seals' National Hockey League franchise.

George Gillett, who with John O'Neal and Potter Palmer acquired the Globetrotters basketball ownership last year, said consideration of the Seals depends on whether the league approves of a recent offer by Labatt Breweries of Vancouver to buy the franchise, valued at $5 million.

WILL WAIT

"Individually or as a group, we would not be interested in considering making an offer until after we see how the Labatt offer turns out," Gillett said when contacted at his Chicago home.

Gillett, who with Palmer and O'Neal has interests in several pro organizations, disclosed yesterday during a televised interview in Green Bay, Wis., that his group has an eye on the financially troubled Seals.

"But we really haven't seen the numbers—the financial ends of it, or the contracts with the players—so we're not yet in a position to be definite," he said.

"Potter and I have talked about it," but the topic has not been discussed in depth with O'Neal, he said. O'Neal and Palmer already own a share of the Seals. Gillett does not.

IN JUNE

The Seals' owners, with whom the Oakland Coliseum has a four-year contract, are expected to ask the NHL at a June meeting to approve a sale to Labatt. Nine of the league's 12 governors would have to approve on two points—the sale, and the transfer to Vancouver.

Barry van Gerbig, principal owner of the Seals, has said the club's operation cost him $3 million last season, particularly due to poor attendance.

"We could be interested," Gillett said, "if the Labatt offer were turned down. We could be interested in a study of the potential. It would be an individual interest, and would not involve the Globetrotters."

PERCENTAGE

Gillett said his group, "through the Globetrotters or individually, will acquire a significant additional percentage of the Oakland Seals and maybe will be in the hockey business next year."

He said later that although he and Potter have discussed the idea, he was not certain of O'Neal's opinion in the matter.

"We are deeply interested in professional sports," he said. "We think the Bay area has a great future, and we love the National Hockey League."

Orioles, A's Get Okay For Opener

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles were to play their American League baseball season opener against the Oakland Athletics before a television audience today.

It was originally scheduled for yesterday but postponed because of the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The Orioles then had to get military permission to hold the game today because of recent looting and arson in the city.

The game was not to be televised but that was changed yesterday in an effort to keep potential looters at home.

David E. Henderson, general manager of WJZ-TV said that the time usually set aside for commercials would be used to disseminate information to those affected by recent disturbances.

As a precaution against any future delays, tomorrow's night game with Oakland was postponed. This would permit the opener to be played that afternoon in event of rain or delay because of the racial situation. Friday is an open date.

Athletics pilot Bob Kennedy said he would go today with Catfish Hunter, a right-hand pitcher. Baltimore was expected to start Tom Phoebus.

Sellout Crowd At Candlestick For Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal dueled Tom Seaver today as the San Francisco Giants and the New York Mets opened their 1968 National League baseball seasons.

The Giants who finished second 10½ games back of the world champion St. Louis Cards last year, are the choice in many quarters to take their first pennant since 1962.

The main reasons are a healthy Willie Mays, a fine pitching staff and the acquisition of second baseman Ron Hunt from Los Angeles in a trade for catcher Tom Haller.

Herman Franks, who seeks his first pennant in four years at the Giants' helm, remarked jokingly in spring training, "We should win the pennant unless I blow it."

The Giants got down to the 25-player limit yesterday by optioning Bob Etheridge to Phoenix, ending rumors of a possible last-minute trade. The highly regarded third baseman fielded well and hit .378 in the spring.

Marichal, 14-10 last year after four straight 21 or better seasons, was 1-2 in the spring with a 1.86 earned run average. Seaver was 16-13 last year.

Mike McCormick, 22-10 last season and winner of the Cy Young and Comeback Player of the Year awards, will start tomorrow against Pittsburgh's Bob Veale. McCormick was 3-1 with a 3.86 ERA for the spring.

The teams will be idle Good Friday. Gaylord Perry goes against Al McBean on Saturday. Perry, 15-17 last year, had a poor spring at 1-4 and a 7.75 ERA.

Marichal is scheduled to join Ray Sadecki for Sunday's doubleheader against Philadelphia's Rick Wise and Larry Jackson. Sadecki was 2-0 with a 2.07 ERA in the spring.

Marin Catholic Wins In Track

Marty Stemple led the victory with three individual wins, taking both hurdles events and the high jump.

Sports World Ends Tribute To King

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sports world ended its three-day tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. today. Race tracks reopened, the major league baseball season started and numerous other scattered events resumed.

Pro hockey and pro basketball playoffs, halted for two days, resumed last night along with Yonkers, N.Y., Raceway and Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Ten baseball openers, seven in the afternoon and three tonight, were scheduled, but Baltimore postponed its Thursday night game against Oakland because of racial disturbances in Baltimore.

Horse racing had been shut down at Aqueduct, Hollywood Park, Gulfstream Park, Narragansett Park and Shenandoah. Florida had suspended all events with parimutuel operations.

JIM MURRAY

The Catastrophic End Of A Fine, Young Champ

Well, as they say in the car-racing magazines, the race at Hockenheim Sunday was "marred." I'll say it was. All racing was marred. All sports were.

"Marred!" Such a totally inadequate, inept word to describe the catastrophic end of a fine young champion. It's as if a journalist in April, 1865, wrote: "A fine evening in the theater tonight was 'marred' by the sound of gunfire . . ." Or, "The maiden voyage of the 'Titanic' was 'marred' today by icy weather in the Atlantic . . ."

THE LAST PLACE in the world a Jimmy Clark must have expected death was alone in a straightaway. In fact, he would have been a 50-to-1 shot over it in the middle of a 10-car pileup. He had a touch with a car that Willie Shoemaker has with a horse, Babe Ruth had with a bat, or Spencer Tracy with a role. They were made for each other.

DEATH BY tree is an occupational hazard of road racing. Ironically, Jimmy Clark used to point out that, in American oval racing, you hit a wall or a steel fence and went out of control. In Europe, on the other hand, he said, you had a chance to bring driving skill into play. The most you could kill would be sheep. Then he hit the one thing you don't have to fear at Indianapolis — a tree.

WHENEVER AN athlete dies with whom your life, however minorly, has been intertwined, the poignancy is heightened. We all die, and we're all dying. But few of us go to meet it at 180 m.p.h.

The first time I saw Jimmy Clark was at Indianapolis in 1963. Neither of us was terribly welcome. Jimmy was bringing a rear-engined revolution. I was bringing a point-of-view where, when safety control would ask after an accident, "Do you want an ambulance?" the answer would come back, "No, just an ashtray." Like most of the drivers, Jimmy didn't mind. Only those involved with racing from the safety of a fourth-floor, glassed-in booth were incensed.

JIMMY DIDN'T even look like a race driver. Pale and slim, he usually dressed like the farmer that he was. When he wasn't wearing flame-proof coveralls, he always had a tie and collar and jacket on. He was game for anything. I once had him drive my 180 Mercedes for a gag. And he promised he was going to try board surfing sometime when he came to California with a few days off.

HE WAS shy and found it had to conceive of himself as a celebrity. Once, when we were having dinner at the Mission Inn in Riverside, I spotted Bob Hope and wanted to take Jimmy over to meet him. Jimmy would not hear of it, would not go and wouldn't let me out of the booth. His position was, a man shouldn't have his privacy invaded at meals by auto drivers. Hope being Hope, he came over to our table.

I ALWAYS FELT Clark performed the most impressive feat I have ever seen in sports. He beat the other man at his own game. Jimmy came over to Indianapolis, that roaring, super-heated lion pit of racing where you can almost smell the death, and where great road race drivers have taken a couple of trial laps and then run like hell back to the cow-and-sheep courses of Europe. He finished a bare second his first year, would have won but for a broken suspension his second, and won easily his third. He gave the lie to those who said niether he nor his car would stand up. To me, it is still unique in sports—like a cricketer starring in his first World Series.

BUT JIMMY'S gone now—the inevitable way of every driver who climbs in a car with a roll-bar instead of a radio, fire extinguisher instead of a cigaret lighter. I'm glad I'm not going to Indy this year. I would spend all day waiting and listening for a little green and gold Lotus with the organ tailpipes and the high whining, waspish sound of the world's greatest race driver dicing coolly with the one adversary who would always get the checkered flag, death.

New-Look Dodgers Start Rebound Campaign Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, a dismal eighth in the last National League campaign, begin a bounce-back effort tonight when they meet the Philadelphia Phillies in the 1968 curtain raiser for both clubs.

Lefties Claude Osteen of the Dodgers and Chris Short of the Phillies will start on the mound.

The contest was postponed from last night because of the Martin Luther King Jr. murder in Memphis, Tenn. Dodger management wanted to play the game as originally scheduled but the Phillies said no.

Los Angeles is a "New Faces of '68" outfit. Among starters tonight will be shortstop Zolio Versalles, a former Minnesota Twin, and catcher Tom Haller, ex-San Francisco Giant.

The Dodgers also have outfielder Rocky Colavito from Cleveland and pitcher Jim "Mudcat" Grant, also of the Twins. And pitcher Hank Aguirre, acquired two weeks ago from Detroit, has been added.

Los Angeles sent right-handed hurler Don Sutton to their Spokane farm team yesterday. He was 12-12 in his rookie season two years ago with the Dodgers and 11-15 last year. Also sent to Spokane were rookie pitcher Alan Foster, outfielder Willie Crawford and catcher Jim Campanis.

Horse Racing Purse Donated To Mrs. King

Fuller said that about $62,000 would be turned over to Mrs. King and the money could be used for scholarships in memory of the slain civil rights leader, or for whatever use she prefers.

The winner's share from Saturday's Gold Cup race at Bowie was $77,415. The difference was received by the trainer and jockey.

MARIN COACHES

Al Endriss Runs An Orderly Ship

By GARY TISCHLER

In any other field except coaching, some people probably would call Al Endriss an operator.

Endriss has a look of well-oiled success about him, as if he couldn't quite miss.

At 36, he looks a tanned, dark-haired eight years younger. He probably could run with any of his baseball charges at Redwood High School.

As a coach, he has more than enough credentials. A success in smaller schools before coming to Redwood in 1958, Endriss is a Catholic product of Richmond, a breeding ground for athletes.

He's spent his professional playing time with the Los Angeles Dodgers and with the San Francisco 49ers and with the Canadian football league.

ALL SEASONS

He officates, he scouts, he runs elementary school athletic programs, he is a drama fan. He is a coach's man for all seasons.

For a high school coach, he knows the value of public relations, something of a trademark at Redwood.

TIGHT SHIP

He runs charts on every one of his players, charts that cover everything from the usual age-weight bit to personality traits and performance potentials.

His season to come is all down pat in a vast schedule book covering each day like the poop sheet for basic training.

As for many coaches, discipline is still the key word for Endriss.

"It's not a matter of toning down the individual," Endriss says. "But a boy has to realize he's playing for the team and the school, not for his average."

The rules Endriss sets up are strict but not overbearing — short haircuts, a Redwood standby, no drinking, smoking, etc.

"It's not the haircut so much," Endriss said. "I don't think a boy is bad if he's got long hair. But it's a matter of sacrifice. That's the first one, and if a boy won't do that, he won't make other sacrifices."

AL ENDRISS
A disciplinarian

TWO SONS

Married and the father of two boys, Endriss has kept in touch with the young boys of today.

"There's a change going on today," he said. "We have a few hippies here and we've lost some boys who could have been good athletes. I think some of these kids just have a little too much of everything and not enough discipline."

It's an opinion that many coaches echo in a field that may be the last high school bastion of discipline.

At 36, Endriss is more or less content and happy with his life in athletics.

"Athletics has given me a lot," he said. "I'm glad I'm in a position to help other boys gain the same benefits."

Redwood Nine Splits Pair, Novato Wins

Things were a tiny bit better for Marin County Athletic League baseball teams yesterday.

Novato, the team with the worst non-league record, won its opener in the Terra Nova Tournament by downing Capuchino, 3-1, behind Russ Dillon's four-hit, eight-strikeout hurling.

Redwood took San Rafael, 6-2, in a consolation semi-final game at the Santa Rosa Invitational, then lost to Napa in the consolation finals, 6-3.

Barry Berringer's two-run double in a two-run first inning gave the Hornets the winning margin and Tom Zechlin added breathing room with a run-scoring single in the fourth.

The Hornets were to play Terra Nova this morning.

Napa chased Giant ace Mike Terry in the first inning with three runs, then finally got to reliever Jim Peters in the seventh inning for another three runs.

The Giants had tied it in the second inning, and had scored two runs in the first inning on a two-run single by Ray Biagini. They were hurt by four errors.

Hockey Veteran Won't Act Age

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gump Worsley, who just won't act his age, is teaching the young, ambitious Boston Bruins a thing or two about hockey.

Worsley, who'll be 39 on May 14, turned in an excellent game in the nets last night as the Montreal Canadiens beat the Bruins 5-2 to take an almost insurmountable 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Hockey League Eastern Division semi-final series.

The team the Canadiens will probably face in the Stanley Cup Eastern Division finals is the New York Rangers, who beat the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

In the lone Western Division playoff game, Minnesota beat Los Angeles 7-5 to slice the King's lead to 2-1 in their series.

Worsley has been the goalie in all three Montreal games and he'll be in the nets tomorrow night when Montreal goes for the four-game sweep.

"I'd have to start him," grinned Coach Toe Blake, "unless I want to be lynched."

Claude Provost and Ralph Backstrom scored a pair of goals within a 42-second span in the second period to snap a 1-1 tie but "Gump's saves in the first period were the turning point," Blake said. "He kept us in there." Worsley made 25 saves including three solo tries by Tommy Williams.

Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin made 36 stops to save the Rangers even though they were outplayed in the last half of the game.

Rod Gilbert, who scored the first Ranger goal, said, "They played well enough to win if it hadn't been for Giacomin. He played some game."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

What To Do To Improve Your Craft's Appearance

It's safe to say that more boats get painted in April in North America than at any other time of the year. In the north, of course, it's traditional that Easter and April are the times to get started working on the boat.

Of course, fewer and fewer boats are being painted each spring because the number of wooden boats is dwindling each year. In 1967, of the estimated 8,275,000 boats in the United States, the Coast Guard reports that less than 43 per cent were wood. This figure is dropping by about 10 per cent per year.

But if you are one of this 43 per cent, it's almost certain that your wooden boat needs paint, right now. But while you are at it, give a little consideration to what can be done to improve the appearance and lines of the craft.

(If you plan to paint an aluminum or plastic boat — many people do — the same ideas may be applied.)

FIRST, CONSIDER what appeals to you when you see a striking, racy-looking boat. To me it's some intangible "shape of motion" that gives a boat a feeling of moving even when standing still. Don't knock it; the car manufacturers go to great lengths to achieve it.

PAINT "SPEED" LINES ON YOUR RUNABOUT— MAKE IT LOOK RACIER

ON A BOAT that has high topsides, paint on a longitudinal line of highly contrasting color. Nautical types call this a "sheer strake." Right away the boat will appear to sit lower and look racier.

If you trailer your boat, paint it to match your car with a brilliant contrasting streak. Every head will turn as you go by.

A GOOD TRICK used by architects, designers and interior decorators is to take a picture of your boat, then trace its outline half a dozen times on thin paper. Try a few free-hand designs for racy lines on the tracing paper.

To see what your boat would look like with any of the designs you have drawn, hold the tracing paper down tightly over the picture so that it shows through with your design superimposed.

ONE MUST not forget, however, that paint must also protect as well as decorate . . . and it's a much greater problem. When I dragged my car-top skiff from behind the garage, where it had been since last duck season, I came to the conclusion that one winter is harder on a boat than two summers.

Last year I preached the virtues of some of the new marine paints — the vinyls, epoxies and polyesters — and went so far as to cover the cartopper with one of the new epoxy resin finishes. All summer long, it was shiny and sleek and I pointed to it with pride. But now, after a few months' lay-up, it has a crackle finish like sharkskin — and just about as rough.

This is not to condemn the new paints, but to point out that almost everything has its limitations.

THAT THERE are other problems to painting boats is shown by some of the questions I've been asked:

Q I've just built a plywood boat. Is there anything I should watch now that it has to be painted?

A. Seal the wood as thoroughly as possible with the very best sealer, primer and paint. Remember, a plywood boat must always be dry. Plywood should not be permitted to get wet because it can't swell up and expand like solid wood. The grain of the plies lie in several directions to give it strength. If they get wet and expand, they tend to tear the whole structure of the material apart.

Q. When I bought my fiberglass boat 15 years ago, they came in any color as long as it was white. Can I paint it a color now?

A. Very easily. Just get the proper paint . . . either resin or epoxy base. This bonds to the resin in the hull and becomes part of it.

Dallas Wins; 76ers Play At Boston

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Orleans Buccaneers strode into the den of the Dallas Chaparrals and, like everyone else, had a miserable time.

The Chaparrals, a team of home bodies, made the Bucs their 15th straight home court victim last night and evened their American Basketball League playoff series at 1-1.

Dallas fought off a desperate last period rally by New Orleans for a 112-109 victory in the best-of-7 Western Division final set, and the Buccaneers won't get out of Dallas until after tonight's third game.

IN MINNESOTA

Pittsburgh and Minnesota, also tied at 1-1, resume their Eastern Division final series tonight in Minnesota.

The National Basketball Association also begins play again tonight with Philadelphia at Boston and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

The Celtics will be trying to retain the home court advantage they gained last Friday by beating the defending champion 76ers in Philadelphia.

"Sometimes there is a tendency to let down at home, and if we let down any tonight we are in trouble," said Boston captain John Havlicek before the second game of the best-of-7 Eastern Division final series.

BIG LEAD

The Southern Methodist Coliseum was the scene as Dallas spurted into a 20-point third-quarter lead over regular season division champion New Orleans.

But the Bucs refused to fold and had the Chaps hanging on at the end for their 10th straight at SMU to go with five in a row at Memorial Auditorium. SMU is the site for tonight's game.

Charley Beasley had 31 points for Dallas and Cincy Powell 26. Doug Moe had 30 for New Orleans and Jim Jones had 29.

MARIN BOWLING NOTES

San Rafael Fireman Keeps Cool During Perfect Game

By RALPH CHATOIAN

That 300 he rolled at Country Club Bowl was the showstopper of the 905 Travel League last Friday night. He showed he could keep a cool head in the heat of fire. After all, he is a fireman for the City of San Rafael.

Long one of the top bowlers of Marin, Weddell has won the Marin Masters Tournament twice and was runner-up on another occasion. His average is 189.

STRIKES TO SPARE — First-year bowler Mary Ann Powell had quite a week. Sporting a 123 average in the Wig League No. 4 at Country Club Bowl, she rolled games of 191, 170 and 166 for a 527 series and then the next day, in the Wig League No. 6, she had games of 158-160-184 for a 502. . . . Bill Nave III was the star of the Thursday Late Mixed League at Nave Lanes, 220 game and 599 series. . . . Elaine Lyons came close to a triplicate in the Classy Lassies League at Nave Lanes, 147-147-143, and Marge Kenyon (125 avg.) rolled a 199 game. . . . Rita Pickrell missed a triplicate by two pins in the Blue Chip League at Country Club, 148-148-146. . . . It was also close for Dave Ewell in the TGIF League at Country Club, 165-164-164, but Walt Karp was kingpin of that league, 612 series headed by a 224 line.

DOWN THE LANES — Ron Reagan (not THAT Ron Reagan) had a 611 in the Week-Enders League at Country Club Bowl, but consistent Lou Piver topped him with a 213-216-217—646; Don Pickrel rolled his first series over the 600 mark in the Week-Enders, 621, quite a feat considering his 152 average.

THIS AND THAT — In the Wig League No. 6 at Country Club, Donna Kyle (117 avg.) rolled a 475 series. . . . Secretary Bobbie Hoover of the Merry Mixers League at Country Club Bowl reports Gerry Beckley picking up the 4-6-10 and Marlene Louwaret the 5-7-10 — impossible, you say? — and also, says Bobbie, Mary Henry had an all spare game of 182 and Paul Balzarini an almost triplicate, 151-151-148. . . . In the Hi-Lo's at Country Club, Mike Wiggins picked up the 4-6-10 and Vickie Campanella the 7-9, both very difficult ones.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer was favored today to capture his fourth title in the 16th annual $150,000 Golf Tournament of Champions, beginning April 18.

Palmer was 6-1 to cop the crown. Odds on Bill Casper were 8-1 while Jack Nicklaus was 10-1.

Casper Second In Pro Golf's Money Derby

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper's $27,500 prize for winning the Greater Greensboro Open shoved him into second place among pro golf's top 10 bankrolls for 1968, according to figures released by the PGA.

NEIL B. LITTLE

Manager Of Housing Is Announced

Neil B. Little of Milpitas has been appointed manager of the Marin County Housing Authority's leased housing program, Donald O. Stutsman, director, announced today.

Little, a long-time Marin resident prior to moving to Milipitas in 1965, will direct the program to lease 200 privately owned apartments and houses throughout the county to low-income families and elderly persons.

To carry out the leasing program, Little will seek the cooperation of property owners to locate appropriate apartments and houses. The leases will be for one to five years with renewal provisions and the units will remain on the tax rolls with the property owners paying full taxes.

A former resident of Mill Valley, Little served as vestryman and director of the church school at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito.

He is a resident of business administration and law from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, and was in the real estate business in the Santa Clara Valley before accepting the housing program position.

Stutsman said the housing authority will open an office for the leased housing program within the next few weeks. In the meantime, inquiries should be directed to the housing authority office in Marin City.

White House Invites Annual Egg Rollers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House plans to open its gates as usual on Easter Monday for the children's egg roll, a tradition since the days of President Rutherford B. Hayes (1877-1881).

Officials said Monday that children aged 12 and under would be admitted to the White House grounds from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. Adults must be accompanied by children to gain admission.

Symbol Is Suggested For Combating Racism

This idea came today from Lothar Salin of San Rafael, who is the international president of Toastmasters International. He said the idea is in line with the Toastmasters's concern with man-to-man communication.

"I fell that if the buttons pop up all over, especially on the lapels of people who count, it will have tremendous impact."

Salin said he is concerned that, with Rev. Martin Luther King buried, life will resume its old routines and the opportunity for a major breakthrough against racism among both blacks and whites will be lost.

"A huge number of moderate people are sick and tired of racism and are ready to do some work. But we overlook them because they are not vocal. My idea is that we might be able to vocalize them by creating a symbol worn on a lapel."

He said the cumulative effect of individual effort such as lapel buttons cannot be discounted. "Look at the reversal in Vietnam policy brought about by individual efforts for peace throughout the country," he said.

"I hope that someone will pick up the idea, and that the campaign against racism will mushroom throughout the country."

Larkspur Police Take Training

Sgt. Charles J. Mattos graduated Friday from the Delinquency Control Institute's one-week University of Southern California course at Pacific Grove.

New Officers Philip Groat and James Layne graduated, also Friday, from a six-week training course at North Bay Peace Officers Academy, Solano College, Vallejo.

Easter Egg Hunt Horns Will Sound On Saturday

As if in answer to the call of a Pied Piper, children thoughout Marin will desert their homes Saturday and head for playing fields and playgrounds.

The search will be on for Easter eggs as the traditional hunts and other activities get under way in most of the country's communities.

In addition to staging a rush for the eggs — and the prizes — some municipalities are also scheduling Easter recreational programs.

In Novato, eight school playground areas are open this week from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. through Friday, and the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department is holding programs daily from noon to 5 p.m. at the community recreation center and at Park, Homestead, Alto and Old Mill Schools.

SAN RAFAEL—The parks and recreation department will sponsor a hunt starting at 9 a.m. in Albert Park, highlighted by characters from Alice in Wonderland, portrayed by the San Rafael Jaycettes, a co-sponsor. Other co-sponsors will be San Rafael Lions Club and the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce.

SAN ANSELMO—Children will be divided into three groups for the hunt, scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Memorial Park. It is being sponsored by the city's parks and recreation department, the San Anselmo Lions Club and the San Anselmo Little League.

CORTE MADERA—A hunt will be staged by the Corte Madera Village Square Association in Menke Park at 11 a.m.

An Easter egg hunt for children of all ages, sponsored by the Optimist Club of Corte Madera, will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday on grounds behind Bob's of Marin restaurant, 1801 Redwood Highway.

NOVATO—Loma Verde Homeowners will hold a hunt at Loma Verde School at 10 a.m. and there will be five prizes for winning eggs in each of four hunts for different age groups.

MILL VALLEY—The third annual easter egg hunt will be sponsored by the parks and recreation department at 1 p.m. at the Project 17 baseball diamond. Ten prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions.

FAIRFAX—The Fairfax Peace and Freedom Movement will stage a picnic and easter egg hunt at 11 a.m. at Deer Park. What is described as "a living prize" will be awarded the finder of the golden egg.

SAN GERONIMO—A combined egg hunt and brunch will be hosted Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Woodacre Improvement Club by the San Geronimo Valley Lions Club. Prizes will be awarded finders of eggs in the ball field and surrounding grounds. Proceeds will go to the valley's Boy Scouts organization and other community service projects.

Housing Snags Jail Work Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A hitch has developed in a work furlough program for county jail prisoners.

The program, allowing selected inmates to commute to and from their cells to private jobs, was to be started this month.

Sheriff Matthew Carberry said yesterday, however, that he has scrapped his longtime plans to lodge them during nonworking hours in a separate area at the Hall of Justice prison. Carberry blamed overcrowding.

Wallace Party Outguns Peace, Freedom Candidates On Ballot

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Showing a marked feminine touch, American Independent party candidates outnumber Peace and Freedom party office-seekers by almost two to one on the June 4 primary election ballot.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan's office released the official list of candidates yesterday showing 571 aspirants for the 38 Congress seats, one U.S. Senate seat, all 80 Assembly positions and 20 State Senate seats being contested this year of the 40-member upper house.

The Peace and Freedom party, basing its campaign on ending the Vietnam war and providing massive help for Negro slums, qualified 34 candidates for the ballot.

However, the prowar, segregationist American Independent party of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace far outdid the other new party. Sixty-one of their candidates made the ballot, 18 of them women.

The nearest party in number of distaff aspirants is the Democratic, with nine, including three incumbent assemblywomen. Only three Peace and Freedom candidates are female, while Republicans have five.

The American Independents also did something the Peace and Freedom group didn't — qualifying the only opponent in November for two congressmen, one state senator and three assemblymen.

Qualification of the new parties means that for the first time in years Californians will be confronted with a number of three-way and four-way races.

In the most important election, Republican U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel faces four other GOP candidates in the primary, while five Democrats seeks their party's nomination and writer Paul Jacobs is assured the Peace and Freedom spot on the general election ballot.

As usual, many incumbents get a free ride through the primary because no one in their party chose to run. Thirteen of the 20 senators are unopposed in their party, while the same is true for 55 of the 77 Assembly incumbents running and 21 of the 37 U.S. House members.

Four offices are wide open because of retirements by Democratic Rep. Cecil King of Los Angeles, Democratic Assemblymen Edward E. Elliott of Los Angeles and Charles W. Meyers of San Francisco, and Republican Assemblyman Steward Hinckley of Redlands.

Three legislators have no opposition from any of the other three parties in the primary. They are Republican Sen. Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville, Assemblywoman Pauline L. Davis, D-Portola, and Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-Burlingame.

The three could in effect win election at the primary, unless a write-in candidate gets 1 per cent of the vote cast at the last general election for the office. In that case, the newcomer would appear on the November ballot.

One of the most interesting races to be decided at the primary will find the author of the state's controversial open housing law trying a political comeback. Former Assemblyman William Byron Rumford will seek to wrest the Democratic nomination for his old seat from freshman John J. Miller of Berkeley.

State Sen. George E. Danielson of Los Angeles faces a serious chance of defeat in the Democratic primary at the hands of Richard Calderon, who almost beat him two years ago and who now has united Mexican-American support in the heavily Mexican-American district.

Act Of Humility Planned By Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has chosen four Africans and a Vietnamese to be among 12 student priests whose feet he will wash and kiss Holy Thursday, the Vatican announced yesterday.

Cambodia Claims Rebellion Beaten

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Government forces have put down "a Red rebellion" in three Cambodian provinces, the official news agency announced today.

The agency said government units had defeated Khmers Rouges—Cambodian Communists—in the provinces of Kampot, Kohkong and Kompong.

Rail Accidents Increase Decried

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal agency says railroad accidents are increasing, causing more death and damage—and forcing more evacuations of populated areas when hazardous material is involved.

The National Transportation Safety Board said yesterday it found those trends in a survey of railroad accidents since 1960. It said the government should step in if railroads don't improve safety practices.

Board Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell Jr. said derailments increased 66.5 per cent from 1961 to 1966 and the study "clearly shows deteriorating track conditions are causing derailments.

Reagan Says Demos Failing To Lead U.S.

PHOENIZ, Ariz. (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California said last night the Johnson administration has failed to demonstrate the leadership "which the people are crying out for."

"Nowhere was the abdication of leadership more evident than in the capital of the world's most powerful nation," Reagan charged at a GOP fund-raising dinner, attended by 1,200.

Earlier, at a news conference Reagan said if Negroes don't "cool it," they will have made a victor out of the assassin of Dr. King and the civil rights leader would have died in vain.

In Albuquerque, N.M., earlied in the day, Reagan said the favorite son candidates, not former Vice President Richard Nixon, have the Republican presidential nomination ballots sewed up.

"The favorite sons hold the vote (for the winner) . . . and there is a great resistance among Republicans to hold off the nominating before the convention starts," Reagan told about 3,000 persons at a fund raising lunch.

He said Nixon "does not have enough convention votes to win" at this time.

He got the biggest cheer when he said it was time for the United States to "stop trying to buy the world's affection and start earning its respect."

Reagan said he was not a candidate for the nomination for the presidency or for the vice presidency.

However, Reagan was asked if he would reject a party draft and he countered, "It's the duty of a citizen to answer the call of his country."

Referring to the burial of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Reagan said "Something of America is being buried today and his death began the first time America accepted violence in the streets."

Reagan, who said he was making an on-the-spot poll of civil rights needs of minority groups, said, "We shall have these problems until the individuals in government have the courage to say the law applies equally to all with no exclusions."

Second Jetliner Drops An Engine

LONDON (AP) — Two days after a jetliner lost a burning engine and crashlanded at London Airport, another with actress Patricia Neal and 74 other persons aboard landed today with smoke pouring from one engine.

No fire developed.

"I saw the smoke pouring out the engine," said Miss Neal, "but I wasn't worried. Everyone was calm and the pilot made a perfect landing."

The actress was returning from New York after filming "The Subject Was Roses," her first movie since she was crippled by a series of strokes three years ago. She is now fully recovered.

The Trans World Airlines plane was a Boeing 707.

Potato Chips Strike Threat

Teamster Union salesmen-drivers were reported Monday to have agreed on a strike unless there is an early settlement with Granny Goose, Laura Scudder, Bell Brands and Frito-Lay.

$30,000 Holdup Of Messenger

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gunman surprised a bank messenger on his round of collections late yesterday and made off with $30,000 in cash and checks. Bank officials estimated the cash at $2,000 to $5,000.

Koji Tsukida, a messenger for the Sumitomo Bank, told police he had parked in a friend's driveway when a young bearded man approached, pointed a gun at him and ordered him to open the trunk.

Tsukida was forced to hand over two attache cases to the bandit who then fled to a waiting car driven by an accomplice.

DYNAMITE IN BILL

Will Quota On Immigration Split British Commonwealth?

By RON POULTON
Toronto Telegram News Service

LONDON — Home Secretary James Callaghan's recent immigration bill caused a parliamentary uproar and rallied British defenders of the faith in the future of the Commonwealth. But the uproar did nothing to hide a multitude of sins at home and the defenders were no more successful in quieting persistent fears abroad.

The bill contained so much dynamite, because it was wide open to charges of racial discrimination here and from widely scattered sections of the Commonwealth, that it is not surprising that truth and judgment were scattered by the explosion.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, for one, has received about 100 anonymous and threatening letters because he voted against the bill after accusing the government of breaking its word.

For every anonymous letter writer it is safe to say there are a couple of thousand other Britons who are more open in their antipathy toward colored immigrants.

The bill appeared to cut immigration quotas from all Commonwealth countries when in fact it was quite plainly aimed at stemming a threatening human tide from Kenya. Kenyan Asians were told that they would have to line up in a queue limited to 1,500 heads of families a year, even though they possess British passports.

Because of that the fires of debate were fueled and Britain stood bathed in an unhealthy light. A scorched home secretary recanted enough to promise that appeals could be lodged and more Kenyan Asians might, after all, be allowed entry.

NO CUTS SEEN

His retreat, plus the cooling draughts of time, have since revealed that the new immigration bill will not cut quotas very much after all.

Work permit quotas were established for Commonwealth immigrants in 1962. In 1966, these were tightened to 8,500 prospective job hunters from all sections of the Commonwealth annually. Entry was allowed for an additional 1,500 without permits, plus 1,000 Maltese.

The prospect of 48,000 Kenyan Asians clamoring to get into Britain stampeded government critics into overlooking the fact that a two-quota system already existed. The 1966 quota of 1,500 non-working permit holders covered the whole of the Commonwealth and was not the quota for Kenya alone.

Callaghan did not immediately clarify that other Kenyan Asians would still come within the work permit quota.

Despite the 1962 quota, about 50,000 colored immigrants have arrived in Britain annually. The new bill will only cut the breadwinners with work permits by about 1,000 a year.

What it did do was enlarge the question: Is the Comonwealth breaking up?

And the question had already been aggravated enough by criticism from African member countries over Britain's failure to bring the rebel Rhodesian government to book and by more critical rumbles from Australia and New Zealand over Britain's decision to withdraw its Southeast Asian forces.

The fuss raised over Callaghan's bill established, however, that a lot of knots have yet to be untangled. Citizens of newly independent countries automatically have the right to a British passport. Commonwealth citizens are first in the line for immigration to Britain.

But the two-quota system still finds the home office, the Commonwealth office and ministry of labor cross-filling regulations and documents. The result is confusion.

Anyone seeking an exit from the labyrinth of Commonwealth regulations will also find himself enmeshed with the Minister of Defense and the Board of Trade.

The partnership of Britain with the 25 other independent Commonwealth members and their 40 dependencies embracing 750 million people within ten million square miles — personifies complexity.

Neither is there any doubt that its structure has been shaken. And that it will be rocked still more as Britain hauls down the flag over old forts and continues to push for entry into the European Common Market.

AMERICAN DRIFT

Disquiet, and a steady drift into the American orbit, is particularly evident in Australia and New Zealand.

All these things have sharpened the point of the questions. What does Britain really get out of the Commonwealth? And what does the Commonwealth get from her?

Altruists deplore the fact that Callaghan's bill served notice that Mother Britain can no longer afford to give haven to all her chicks of yesteryear. There were plenty of arguments against the bill, proving there are plenty of altruists here.

Others looked at the balance sheet.

For instance, the 1967 trade sheet showed that British commerce with Canada followed a pattern established for some years. Her exports totalled 220 million pounds, while she imported 456 million pounds worth of Canadian goods.

This pattern holds for many other Commonwealth countries also. And, on the total Commonwealth trade for the year, Britain imported 1,607 million pounds worth of goods, while exporting only 1,250 million pounds.

Board Does Disservice To College And Public

When a College of Marin faculty meeting produces an 80-to-3 vote (with only four abstentions) calling for resignation of the college district superintendent, it is obvious there is deep and serious dissatisfaction.

In such a situation, it becomes highly questionable whether the district can successfully carry through the administrative reorganization that was voted so hurriedly last Thursday night.

It was that reorganization — and the way it was done — that brought to a boil the dispute between President-Supt. William K. Ramstad and the faculty, a dispute that apparently had been simmering for a long time.

WHEN RAMSTAD took over the dual role of College of Marin president and Marin Junior College District superintendent last July, he was interviewed by an Independent-Journal reporter. He told the reporter he felt the faculty should have more responsibility in administrative decisions.

A sizable majority of faculty members contend that what followed was just the opposite: the faculty was denied any role in administrative decisions. Neither the academic senate nor the administrative council has been consulted prior to decisions, the faculty leaders contend.

SOME OF THE TRUSTEES contended the decision was reached long ago that there should be separate presidents for the Kentfield and Novato campuses under the district superintendent.

It is true that the idea that there should be a man in charge at each campus — whatever his title — is far from new. Such an organizational setup was discussed when Stephen E. Epler was superintendent-president. But it was discussed as something for the future, when College of Marin becomes a two-campus institution.

WHY SHOULD a president for Kentfield be named now — with establishment of a second campus still several years away? Why did it become a matter of such urgency last week that the board of trustees must meet in special closed session to hire the Kentfield president before even creating the job? (Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy's rationale that the job already existed because of Ramstad's dual titles strikes us as a piece of sophistry. If that were so, the later action of the board creating the job would not have been needed.)

Did the board majority act as it did to forestall another faculty effort on behalf of Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond? The faculty urged his appointment to the presidency while he was serving in "acting" capacity after Epler left.

Did the board make such haste to preclude participation by the faculty in the decision — such participation as Ramstad advocated last July?

NOTHING ABOUT the procedure makes much sense. Too much about it smells of backroom "deals" between the college district superintendent and a majority — but not all — of the trustees.

Its effect on the electorate can scarcely cement the public trust the board will need when it must go before that same electorate with a further appeal for money to complete the second campus.

The Blue Lupine family is holding its colorful, annual coming out party again this April. This event, held out in the open along the roads and byways, is eagerly awaited each year, and is comparable only to the Poppy family debut several weeks earlier.

The Lupine family came up the hard way, struggling to overcome the deficiencies of poor soil and lack of cultivation. Somehow, all the beautiful, blue-eyed children prosper and are the envy of more cultured plants.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Further government encroachment into the field of private industry is predicted if the state legislature adopts bills introduced by Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, R-Salinas, which he claims will "over-haul the regulation of so-called imitation milk products."

Pattee said his bills would bring "all products which resemble dairy products" under jurisdiction of the state Department of Agriculture.

In addition, the measures would provide for licensing of all plants manufacturing products which resemble milk products. Thus, another segment of private business would be brought under government control.

THE SALINAS assemblyman, who engaged in the dairy industry himself as a milk producer for many years, emphasized that his bills do not contain any component pricing provisions for trade products, such as are provided in the codes for milk itself.

Under present laws affecting the dairy industry, the price of milk in the various milk marketing areas of California, is under complete control of the Department of Agriculture. The laws have resulted in the operation of a state-controlled milk trust, which has virtually eliminated competition in the business of selling milk to the public.

This complete control was effected by the milk industry by degrees, with a little more regulation being voted by the legislature each year until the state dictates not only how much the housewife pays for milk, but also the amount the producer may receive from the distributor and processor.

PATTEE'S MOVE to start regulation of the imitation milk business and all of its component is reminiscent of the now historic battle between producers of oleomargarine, which is not a milk product, and the dairymen who produced butter.

For many years, oleo manufacturers were precluded by law from offering yellow oleomargarine to the public. If the people who purchased Oleo wanted it to look like butter on the table, they had to perform the yellowing themselves, a task which took a long time to accomplish. Then during World War II, butter was in short supply. The protests from the thousands of people who used oleo because no butter was available led the legislature to amend the laws to allow sale of colored oleo.

But restaurants still can't serve it without posting notice to that effect.

ORIGINALLY, the laws relating to the inspection of milk were effected to protect the public under the constitutional provisions authorizing laws pertaining to public health.

However, the laws have developed into a protection for the milk industry with the public paying the bills under a state-regulated rather than a competitive industry price.

Problem To Woo Commuter From Car

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I am always sorry to see competition between advocates of improved buses and advocates of ferries, as when the usually forward-looking Bridge Director Stephen Leonoudakis voted last week against a "transit task force" because it will work first to improve bus service.

I think it should be realized that there is a phychological attachment to private cars which must be overcome first in our efforts to promote mass transit. It matters little whether we get the commuter out of his car onto a ferry, or onto a bus which will take him to a ferry or all the way to San Francisco. The problem is to get him out of his car. Therefore, ferry advocates and improved bus advocates should pull together. We need all the cooperation we can get to solve our crucial transit problem.

Pharmacist Defends Chloromycetin

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recent I-J editorials have mentioned concern over the toxicity of the drug chloramphenicol (Chloromycetin, Parke-Davis and other brands). A brickbat was thrown by the I-J for advertising of the drug in medical liturature. . . .

Let me first make clear that all drugs which according to Federal and state laws can be dispensed to the public only through a legal prescription order are dangerous drugs and are potentially toxic. Chloramphenicol is and always has been such a drug. But to single out chloramphenicol as an editorial whipping boy is grossly unfair.

On Jan. 1, 1967 the California State Department of Health and the California Medical Association with assistance of the California Pharmaceutical Association reported the findings of a study entitled "Fatal Aplastic Anemia and Chloramphenicol." This is a 110 page report obviously too long to quote here, but the findings can be summarized as follows:

1. The risk of occurence of fatal aplastic anemia within one year of exposure to chloramphenicol (period studied Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1965) is 1 in 24,200.

2. No reasonable basis exists for enactment of special legislative categories to restrict the use of chloramphenicol by licensed physicians in California.

3. It is not in the best interests of the public or practice of medicine to restrict the administration of chloramphenicol to patients in hospitals.

4. The physicians and pharmacists of California have developed an awareness of the hazards to the use of chloramphenicol. . . .

Appraisal Of King And Movement

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The shooting of Martin L. King Jr. was indeed a tragic event. But before he is permanently deified and every other school and public building renamed, perhaps some thought is needed. Certainly his borrowing of Gandhi's theory of non-violent protest was effective initially. Negroes protested with dignity and progress was made.

However it's no secret that three years ago he lost effective control over his movement to the black militants. He also seemed occasionally to lose contact with reality, i.e. condoning the riots and protesting where riots were surely to develop.

WHAT MUST BE the shortest sermon on record was preached on Sunday morning by Rev. William Wagner in Southampton after a week of steaming hot weather. The good man gazed at his congregation, mopped his brow, and confined his sermon to these eight words: "If you think it's broiling today — just wait!"

Gerry Blumenfeld's "Tales From the Bagel Lancers" is a neat potpourri of chestnuts and brand new gems from East Side wits in New York City. A sample:

1. A pedestrian stuck his head into the last limousine of a three-block-long funeral cortege and inquired, "Who's the big shot they're burying?" The occupant of the limousine replied cheerfully, "I haven't the faintest idea—but it's probably somebody in the first car!"

Negotiations At Last—But Their Course May Be Tortuous

WASHINGTON—That which few dreamed would come so soon is in the making: the United States and North Vietnam are meeting to attempt to do something serious and significant about Vietnam.

There is reason for modest hope.

There is even greater reason for realistic caution.

The ground for hope rests on the fact that Washington and Hanoi are establishing direct contact at a high level.

The need for realistic caution is that the agenda is sternly limited by Hanoi, and we just don't know whether Ho Chi Minh wants to use negotiation to fight the war more advantageously or to end the war.

THERE ARE tremendous risks in beginning discussions under such circumstances. But they are worth taking and will not be perilous if we do not leap onto the roller coaster of false expectations.

President Johnson opened the way by a limited unilateral de-escalation of the bombardment of the North and Ho Chi Minh by proposing limited talks.

Both sides have made a concession. We have reduced the bombing without any guarantee that Hanoi will make any reciprocal reduction of its military action. They have accepted a beginning of talks under a condition they previously rejected; that is, without a full stop of the bombing.

But at this point Hanoi's concession is so slight as to be hardly visible. In response to our substantially reducing the bombing of the North, Hanoi has said no more than that it is willing to discuss our totally ending the bombing.

That is certainly no evidence that prompt and productive peace negotiations are near at hand. At best it will be a long, painful, uncertain, tortuous road to a settlement. We need to be very clear about this because it will take discipline and poise and national stamina to avoid becoming so impatient that we fall into the trap of a deceptive peace.

MOST AMERICAN critics of the U.S. defense of South Vietnam say that they do not want us to withdraw from the war, though there are many pressures to do so.

But if the Communists drag out the peace negotiations over Vietnam as they did in Korea — and this is the only safe premise — there will be pressures to capitulate at the negotiating table in order to get out with a face-saving appeasement.

It is because we have stayed the course on the battlefield that the potential of a negotiated settlement is now within reach.

We now must be ready to stay the course in the slow-motion peace talks which comprise the well established tactics of every negotiation the Communists have engaged in.

THERE ARE TWO possible explanations why Hanoi has agreed to opening limited negotiation. One gives some hope that it is a real beginning. That is because things have been going rather badly for Hanoi. Captured documents show the Vietcong admitting to their own cadres that the Tet offensive achieved none of its major goals — no popular uprising in the South, few defections by the South Vietnamese military, no crumbling of the Saigon government. North Vietnam is having to supply more than 60 per cent of the fighting forces in the south. Hanoi has recently publicized stiff penalties for North Vietnamese who commit "acts against the state."

The other explanation is that Hanoi is reasonably satisfied with even the limited results of the winter-spring offensive and thinks the state of opinion in the U.S. is so divided and weak that now is the time to add a diplomatic offensive to its military offensive.

In the end it will take negotiations to settle this war and now that President Johnson is unencumbered by politics he is in the best position to direct them cooly and carefully.

Hanoi Can Defy Moscow As Saigon Defies U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union's insistence that it is Hanoi, independent of either Moscow or Peking, that will decide the time and manner of Vietnam peace talks is probably more than a Communist smoke screen.

For just as the South Vietnamese have found it possible to act against the wishes of the United States, their chief ally and supplier, so has the north from time to time defied the wishes of both Moscow and Peking.

WHEN THE United States lifted South Vietnam to the same level of importance as West Berlin, the South Vietnamese concluded the United States could not afford to abandon them except under circumstances almost unimaginable.

And when Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin declared the Soviet Union would not permit North Vietnam to lose the war, the north achieved the same leverage over Moscow.

Hard-lining Peking is similarly committed.

ONE EXAMPLE of Hanoi's determination to conduct its own strategy came last fall when Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister, refused a Russian request that he delete public acknowledgment of Chinese support from an article he wrote to be published in a Soviet newspaper.

Similarly, Giap ignored Chinese advice to abandon large unit action against American forces and to fall back to a guerrilla strategy.

THE WAR has been expensive in both Moscow and Peking.

These figures are some six to eight months old but probably are the latest available.

Exports of such items as coal, pig iron, canned goods and other items had fallen from $100 million in 1965 to around $50 million in 1967.

This meant that to sustain a minimum diet North Vietnam depended upon some 45,000 tons of Soviet wheat and flour. Chinese rice and east European beans and grain.

CIVILIAN officials in Washington estimated that Russian aid to North Vietnam had jumped from $300 million in 1965 to $720 million in 1967.

Red China, torn by its own cultural revolution, gave aid estimated at $110 million in 1965 up to $215 million in 1967. Aid from the East Eruopean bloc was estimated at about $85 million in 1967.

During a visit to the Soviet Union last fall, one of the most frequent complaints heard by this correspondent was what the "American" war in Vietnam was costing the Communist bloc. From the North Vietnamese official press have come complaints of official corruption and sabotage.

The high cost of war is obvious to everyone. But so are the difficulties in the way of stopping it.

Belvedere Mayor Strikes Back At San Francisco Commute Tax

Even peace-loving Belvedere may join in Marin's retaliation moves against San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's proposal of a commuter tax.

Mayor John R. Moore recently expressed his strong desire to have the city's several insurance policies transferred to local agencies.

"We have no allegiance to San Francisco," he said. "There are many brokers in the county we could deal with."

CITIZENS' HELP can go two ways. If uncontrolled and impulsive, it can interfere with the work of firemen, policemen or others in authority. If controlled and intelligent, however, it can be effective.

While sheriff's deputies directed traffic, guarded an injured motorcyclist awaiting the ambulance, and took information from witnesses, one citizen, acting under direction, laid flares along the busy boulevard to warn oncoming motorists.

In the middle of the street with a broom was a local contractor who is also a volunteer fireman, carefully brushing broken glass into a dust-pan.

This kind of volunteer aid benefits both the police and the public and deserves commendation. Since no medals are given out for such public service, at least we can say "thank you" in print to citizens like James A. Reed.

IF YOU'RE wondering why Tiburon's Development Administrator Phil V. Scott has sprouted chin whiskers in the style of Abraham Lincoln and Usysses S. Grant, it's not because he's turned into a "hippie."

He's preparing to enter a whisker contest in Vacaville, where he resides, in June.

The hairy chin is scheduled to be shorn after the contest, win or lose, Scott says.

Visit The U.S.A. This Year For World's Most Violent Show

WASHINGTON — Dear Visitor From Abroad,

This is your invitation to visit the U.S.A. in 1968, otherwise known as the Land of Bonnie and Clyde.

To make it easier for you, we will answer some of the questions that foreign tourists keep asking us.

IS IT DANGEROUS TO VISIT THE UNITED STATES?

Of course not. Americans are a gentle people who abhor violence. What little there is can be seen on television or in the movies — every night. We have cowboy films, cops and robbers pictures and children's cartoons. If that isn't your cup of tea you can tune in on one of our news shows. We not only show people being killed, but villages being burned, GIs being wounded, enemies being tortured or anything else that suits your fancy. Of course, these shows have no effect on Americans because they know it has nothing to do with them.

WHAT SHOULD I WEAR?

American fashions this year are all modeled after the Bonnie and Clyde look, and everyone wants to dress like a gangster. This trend is tongue in cheek, because everyone knows we don't admire gangsters, even though we all consider Bonnie and Clyde a gas.

WHAT CAN I BUY IN THE UNITED STATES THAT I CAN'T BUY IN MY OWN COUNTRY?

Guns, for one thing. We have no laws about buying guns. You don't even have to go to a store. You can order them by mail from newspapers and magazines.

You can buy shotguns, rifles, hand guns, pistols, revolvers and practically any kind of weapon you want. Of course, we only use guns in the United States for hunting. That's why the American Congress in its infinite wisdom won't pass any gun control law. They know anyone who would order a gun by mail or buy one in a store would never use it except to shoot game.

WHAT ABOUT VISITING AMERICAN CITIES?

It's perfectly safe to visit any American city in the country, providing you don't go out after dark or during certain parts of the day. The best thing is to ask your hotel clerk at the desk. He'll indicate what streets are safe and when you can visit them. Americans pride themselves on law and order and would never do anything to disturb the peace.

WHEN IS THE BEST TIME TO COME?

Any time is a good time to visit the United States, with the possible exception of the long hot summer which starts in the middle of March and goes through October. At this time people are irritable and not as friendly toward tourists as they might be at Christmas time.

WHERE CAN I SEE THE PRESIDENT?

You can see the White House, but the president, for security reasons, doesn't make many public appearances any more — at least none that are announced in advance. No other American officials are free to travel, either. But as a tourist, this shouldn't bother you. After all, you have a foreign passport.

I hope this answers most of your questions. So forget your cares and see Americans at work and at play. Watch a truly civilized democracy in action and meet the people who love each other and live in harmony.

See for yourself why the United States is the leader of the Free World and an example to everyone of what you can do when you have understanding, wealth and power.

Federal Ban Against Parrots Is Relaxed

The birds are quarantined and receive special inoculations and food that eliminates the fever before they are allowed into the U.S. Nine states still have anti-parrot laws on their books. They are Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Mississippi, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wyoming.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Player Who Gorges Himself On The Finesse Has No Discretion

When a boy gets a job in a candy store he gorges himself on everything in sight until he learns discretion. The same wisdom eventually comes to bridge players who dote on finesses, but some of them learn too much discretion.

BAD BREAK

Declarer took the ace of hearts and confidently led a trump to the ace. West discarded a heart, and South tried to conceal his dismay at the bad trump break.

South immediately led his diamond, but West played the nine to signal that he had an even number of cards in the suit. East got the message and took his ace.

East shifted to the jack of clubs, and South took the king of clubs and gave up a heart. Back came a club to the ace, and South got out with a club. By this time South had only trumps left and had to ruff when East returned a diamond. South had to give up a trump trick and was therefore down one.

WENT WRONG

South went wrong at the second trick when he led a trump to the ace. The odds were very high that the queen would fall under the ace or king, but South should have finessed with the jack of spades just the same. A sure thing is better than a strong probability.

In the actual hand, the finesse of the jack of spades would win. South would draw the rest of the trumps and give up one heart, one diamond and one club.

If West had the queen of spades, South's finesse would lose. West would cash one heart and shift to clubs. South would win with the king of clubs, draw the only missing trump and force out the ace of diamonds. East would return a club to the ace, and South would now lead the three of spades to dummy's six in order to discard a club on the queen of diamonds.

Simple Safety Device For Buses

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Donald Coakley of Golden has devised a simple system that he says would help prevent school bus crashes at railroad crossings.

'Hero Medal' Invention Makes Hospital Brighter

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Nobody had seen a smile on her face in six months. Little Joan, 3 years old, was in the hospital for X-ray treatment for cancer. One day the nurse pinned a "Hero Medal" on her hospital gown and for the first time, the little girl broke into a smile.

The Hero Medal is just one of the inventions of Sidney Weiss, 68, Flushing, a senior volunteer at The Long Island Jewish Hospital in New Hyde Park. Weiss retired from his electrical business nine years ago after a heart attack and started a new career as ex-officio hospital inventor.

An SOS from a department in the hospital will put Weiss' inventive brain into gear. Zelma, a former sales girl suffering from a rare debilitating disease, could not lift her arms to hold a telephone. Weiss devised a telephone holder that keeps the phone at ear level, is switched on and off with a spring. Zelma now has a full-time job in a telephone answering service.

Weiss has completed more than 13 inventions to help handicapped patients or to make his work in diversional therapy more efficient.

Scientists Build New Relics Mound

ITHICA, N.Y. (SS) — A new kind of archaeological site — a mound of soil, bones and pottery — is being constructed this spring by Cornell University students to help scientists 100 years from now.

Under the direction of Dr. Robert Ascher, students will build a mound 80 feet long, 15 feet wide and five feet high.

Then each year, for the next 100 years, one-hundredth of the loaf-shaped mound will be sliced off and inspected for changes.

Deformation of the mound, effects of plant growth and of rain and snow, as well as of burrowing animals and soil changes will be noted.

Hawaii Politics A Chilly Trade

HONOLULU (AP)—There is some cold reasoning prevailing in the State House of Representatives.

Rep. Cliff W. Krueger has been showing up in the house chambers with an overcoat with the collar pulled up.

The Arctic-like atmosphere in the chambers of the new State Capitol has brought several complaints from Republicans and Democrats alike.

"I know it looks funny," said Krueger of his coat, "but it's comfortable. "What I need now is a radiating heater under my desk to keep my feet warm."

Human Computer Working With European Atom Lab

By SCIENCE SERVICE

GENEVA — The European Center for Nuclear Research (CERN) vies with the United States in fundamental physics, hoping to discover new atomic secrets that might redress the balance of technologic power for the proud European fathers of it all.

While the weird banks of electronic equipment on opposite sides of the Atlantic resemble one another, CERN enjoys one instrument the United States can hardly duplicate; its human computer, William Klein.

"No machine has yet been programmed that can display the sort of intellectual skill that William brings to computation," says colleague Edwin Shaw. "He restores man's ego in the face of electronic marvels."

Multiplication, for instance, of any five-figure number takes him but a few seconds. Even 1,388,978,361 x 5,645,418,496 equals 7,841,364,129,733,165,056 is done all in his head in 64 seconds. For Klein, this involves 25 multiplications, each of two two-digit numbers — 49 operations in all.

Division, addition, subtraction, powers, roots, logarithms and factors are all handled with equal facility. Behind this unique ability lies a phenomenal memory for numbers and sheer intellectual virtuosity.

His basic material, acquired by long hard effort, includes knowing by heart the multiplication tables up to 100 x 100, all squares up to 1000 x 1000, logarithms of all integers under 150, to five decimal places, and all prime numbers below 10,000 — plus an enormous number of odd facts and principles, some his own, some adopted from earlier theoreticians.

One day several years ago, for example, Klein was at a British business exhibition. He visited the Friden stand and asked for a demonstration of the company's new "root" machine.

"All right, sir, let's try all the fives," offered a salesman, feeding 555555555555. Before he could press the button for the result, Klein said quietly, "745356 should be about right."

Klein had obviously not gone through the laborious process of conventional square rooting. Instead he remembered that 0.5555 is the decimal equivalent of 5/9, the square root of which is 1/3 times the square root of 5. Knowing the square root of 5 and dividing by 3 gives the answer.

There are some 2,700 people at CERN, and Klein knows most of their license numbers. "I can't help it," he says.

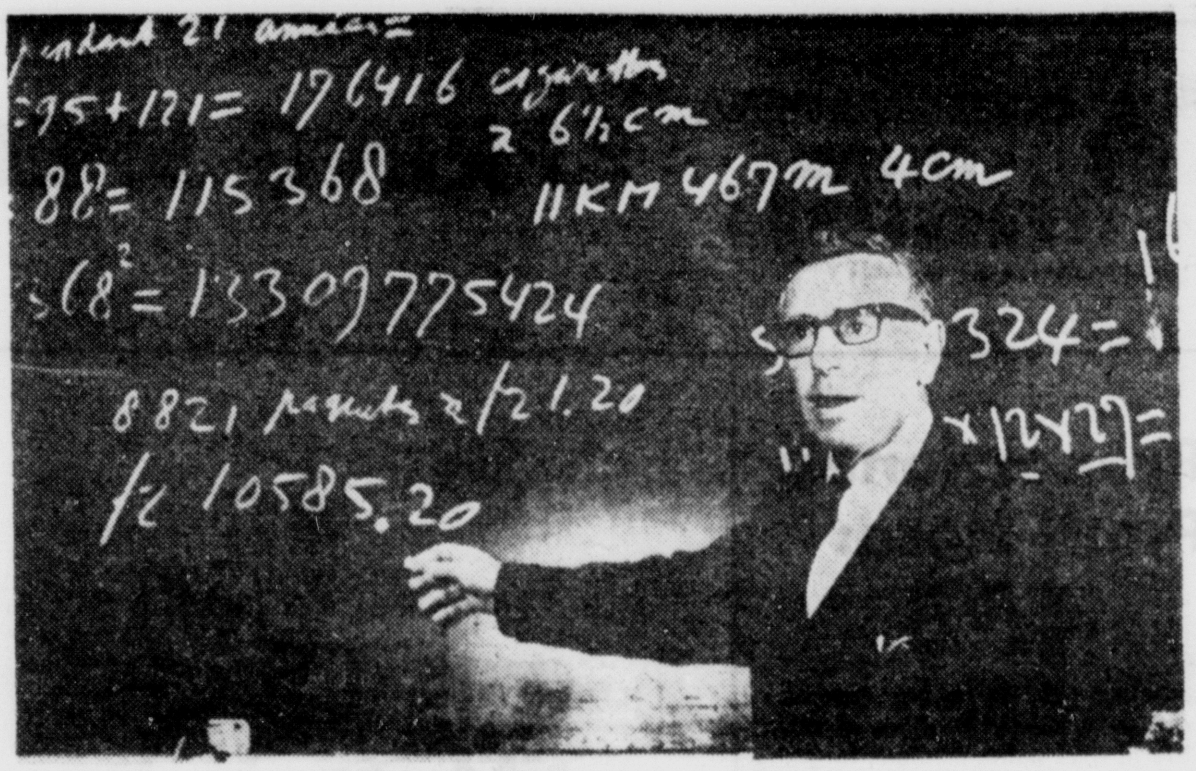
He was born in Amsterdam on Dec. 4, 1912. ("That was a Wednesday of course.") He was the son of a strict medical practitioner. The father insisted that one of his two sons become a doctor and William, the elder, dutifully went to medical school for five years from 1932 to 1937; he quit before the last two clinical years.



MATH WIZARD — The mind of William Klein, filled with arithmetical symbols and methods, many of his own devising, forms CERN's human computer, a unique tool in Europes research into nuclear energy.

The sons lived well enough until 1940. They hid from the occupying Nazi army, but William's brother, like Anne Frank, was discovered and sent to a death camp.

Destitute after the war, Klein turned to the stage. From the age of 9 or 10—"I was not one of those 3- to 4-year-old prodigies," he says — he had independently worked at his mental arithmetic. His first interest was factoring and prime numbers.

In his spare time he worked up to almost 20,000, distinguishing the indivisible prime numbers from those that were products of two or more other numbers. He grew more enthusiastic as the computation became easier.

His teachers never encouraged him or recognized that he could help the other pupils to learn to think. Indeed, they usually asked bitterly, "How did you get the solution so quickly?" And when told, the typical response was, "But this is not the way I taught you to do it — and expect you to do it."

"I was not good at math," recalls Klein. "Mental arithmetic does not mean mathematics. In algebra, I was all right. But geometry, spatial, stereo problems . . . och."

In 1945, William went on stage in Pascal's variety show, where he worked until 1951, thoroughly enjoying show business and performing in three countries.

In 1951, he obtained a job as a special calculator at the Mathematics Center affiliated with Amsterdam University. He served on many projects for government, industry and universities, such as helping scientists to diminish the vibrations of airplane wings and helping technicians to take the bugs out of popular products. "This was all numerical," Klein says, musing, "It was the precomputer age, ahh, a jolly good time."

But again the siren call of the midway drew him from other duties. This time is was Pigalle, and late Manseilles and Toulon.

Next he met some Monroe Calculator people in Paris, demonstrated his talent and was assigned to London. He still like to say "blimey." The BBC had him perform, and again it was vaudeville. Says a yellowing program, "The Dutch Miracle, William Klein." It calls him the man with the brain worth 10,000 pounds (Brit. currency).

Again with the Amsterdam math center, he worked on projects for Geneva agencies, contacted CERN and was hired in 1958 as numerical theoretician supreme and problem-solver.

Can many youngsters acquire Klein's prowess? "I'm sorry, but it is difficult. You need long self-training and exercise . . . and a bit more. I don't like to say 'gift'."

"More and more, mental arithmetic is losing its influence instead of gaining," he says sadly, "because of the computer."

Still, he is gratified, for he is deep in theoretical physics, working with Europe's best scientists, exploring the mysteries of matter.

"I don't trust computers," he mutters. "Of course one turns out great quantities of results, 5,000 or 6,000; I can't bother to check them all." But he checks them when he can.

Diamonds Help Cool Miniature Devices

NEW YORK (SS) — As electronic devices get smaller and smaller, the heat generated by their operation concentrates in sunch a small area that it can burn up the devices. To solve the problem, the pinhead-sized devices are usually mounted on a larger block of a material that is a good heat conductor, such as copper.

Experimenters at Bell Telephone Laboratories have found that even copper isn't satisfactory in some cases, and have substituted tiny chips of industrial diamond, which conduct heat about five times better than copper at room temperature.

What Parents Can Do If Junior Takes Dope

NEW YORK (AP) — How can you tell if your child is taking drugs, and what do you do if you find out he is?

Many adolescents experiment with drugs, take them a few times, find they don't need them and stop. This may be hazardous, but the main problem is the youngster who takes drugs regularly for comfort, to feel good, to fill an emotional gap.

Thomas J. Mackell, Queens County district attorney, explained how to tell if a child is taking drugs:

"We advise parents to observe their children and note unusual changes from normal behavior. If the youngster is friendly and outgoing, for example, and then suddenly becomes withdrawn, hostile and furtive, that may be a sign. A sign that something is wrong, of course — not necessarily drugs. The youngster who keeps to himself for long periods in his room or locked in the bathroom, who is constantly on the phone and who is called on the phone by persons who won't identify themselves to the parents — these are little early signs that something is peculiar.

"Other signs that narcotics may be involved include a sharp decline in school grades, rapid disappearance of clothing and personal belongings from the house (to pay for drugs), rejection of old friends and taking up with strange companions, loitering in hangouts and other places frequented by addicts. And using the jargon of addicts. . . .

If the parents find out Johnny is taking drugs, the one thing they mustn't do is panic. They should seek help.

Cash Rated Main Need For Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The biggest problem facing American high schools today is cold, hard cash.

This is the conclusion reached by Harvard President Emeritus James Bryan Conant, author of a report that caused a stir in the world of education in 1959, in a new report published by McGraw-Hill.

In his new report, The Comprehensive High School, Conant said, "It is quite clear that there is something wrong with the way we finance our public schools."

He said he is coming to believe that school financing should be fully on a state rather than local basis, and that a method must be found to give each state a share of federal income tax receipts to be spent for education as the state sees fit.

This would attack one of the major weaknesses that Conant finds in the high school system —wide differences in quality between states, and within states, caused by the widely varying resources that states and local areas make available to public schools.

"I have become more and more convinced that one of the main reasons why the financing of our public schools is in such a chaotic state is that no one has presented a clear picture of the situation," Conant wrote.

"I am sure not many Americans realize the almost accidental way in which the public schools are financed in most states. I have arrived at the conclusion that a radical overhaul of our thinking about financing public schools is required."

Fish Protein May Make Candy Prevent Bad Teeth

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A dab of fish protein concentrate in cookies and candy bars may some day turn those sweet snacks into nutritional boosters that will fight tooth decay.

Dr. Robert M. Stephan of Bethesda, Md., told the International Association for Dental Research that mixing fish powders with table sugar reduces the sugar's ability to cause tooth decay in laboratory rats.

The scientist from the National Institute of Dental Research said the fish protein is nearly tasteless. He said the concentrate could be added to snack foods to make them more nutritious while fighting teeth decay.

Stephan said the fish protein concentrate has been approved for use in the United States but its greatest potential as a complete protein supplement is expected to be in underdeveloped countries.

Meanwhile a National Institute of Dental Research study revealed the presence of similar decay-causing streptococcal bacteria on children's teeth in South America and in eastern United States.

Dr. H. V. Jordan of Bethesda, Md., said the study concentrated on the distribution of bacteria found in dental plaque scraped from tooth surfaces of 300 school children between the ages of 12 to 14 in Cheektowaga, N.Y., Charlotte, NC., and two villages in Colombia, South America.

In Charlotte, which has adequate fluoridation, the bacteria was found in 30 per cent of the youngsters. Seventy per cent of the children in Cheektowaga had the decay - causing organisms. Low levels of natural fluoride are found in Cheektowaga's water supply.

Another study of Navy Personnel by D.R Irvin L. Shklair and Capt. Gordon H. Rovelstad of the Naval Dental Research Institute, Great Lakes, Ill., revealed white blood cells in individuals who never suffered from tooth decay will destroy decary-causing bacteria to a greater extent than those in persons with extensive decay problems.

They said there may be an immunological factor present in decay - free persons that could aid in the control of tooth decary. If this factor could be induced in decay-active individuals, it may offer an effective means of controlling tooth decay.

Dr. Robert Mackowiak, Philadelphia, predicted a dentist of the future could listen to a patient chomp his teeth over a telephone and tell him what's wrong with his bite.

The transmissions would be fed to a central laboratory for evaluation. The analysis by the laboratory, which Mackowiak called "occlusograms," were designed to reveal differences between normal or faulty biting.

He said such diagnostic tools already have been developed where sounds generated during tooth contact are recorded on tape.

Science Finds New Clue To Getting Old

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Approximately 3,000 years ago a composer of psalms remarked that the years of our life are threescore and ten, or even, "by reason of strength," fourscore.

The Psalmist was talking about human beings, although what he said was equally true of African elephants. Since his time it has been noted that other species, too, appear to have limits set on their longevity.

The years of the Rhesus monkey, for example, are about one score and five, those of a Galapagos tortoise about five score.

What force is it that imposes these lifespan cutoffs? Whatever it is, according to Dr. A. L. Tappel, it is operating today much as it did 30 centuries ago.

No matter where men live, whether in jungle huts or city penthouses, "the clock of life inevitably runs down, on the average, before 75 years have passed."

According to the California scientist, the "most reasonable speculation" about the life-limiting force is that it "is similar to cosmic radiation" which ceaselessly bombards all organisms.

"If this is true" Tappel said, "it explains a great deal about how our cells become unable to handle the nutrients they extract from the food we eat and, as a result, wither away."

Some compounds, notably Vitamin E, can protect cells from radiation damage. But when such protectors are lacking, energetic rays can trigger production of molecular fragments known as free radicals.

The end result is that the cell dies, and the man, woman, or child of which it was a part "is one cell older."

Could massive doses of Vitamin E or other substances offering protection to cells against radiation, postpone aging and extend the Biblical lifespan?

"The very idea that we may change the body's vulnerability to radiation by altering the food we eat may impress some as being academic fantasy," Tappel said.

"But the fact seems to be," he said, "that we now know enough about what goes on inside the cell to suggest that one day this knowledge will in practical application in medicine and dietetics."
